Heavy Fighting Erupts

JERUSALEM (AP)— For the third time in 20 years, war broke out today in the Middle East and gunfire sounded in Israel and in three of its Arab neighbors — Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

The Arabs, sworn to destroy Israel, were battling the Jewish state's forces on two fronts, at Egypt's Sinai frontier and on the Syria and Jordan borders.

Each side accused the other of lighting the fuse for the explosion which, as in 1956, threatened to involve the major powers.

The main fighting today appeared to be in the Sinai Desert, across the frontier that United Nations forces guarded until Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser ordered them out 18 days ago.

Artillery fire was heard in Jerusalem, the holy city divided between Jordan and Israel. Israel's port of Haifa was bombed. Israeli planes attacked the airports of three Arab capitals, Cairo, Amman and Damascus. Amman radio, the voice of King Hussein, reported heavy fighting along Jordan's 350-mile frontier with Israel.

Cairo said Israeli planes attacked Sharm El Sheikh, the point overlooking the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba — the area Nasser has blockaded to Israeli ships in the central controversy that brought on the fighting.

The Egyptian high command admitted that Israeli forces had penetrated into the Sinai desert on the southern front and into Khan Younes, in the middle of the Gaza Strip to the north.

"The enemy has struck our positions in these locations and has been repulsed," a military spokesman in Cairo said.

The attack in Sinai was on the road from the desert frontier to Ismailia, which lines about midway on the Suez Canal, the announcement said.

British Foreign Secretary George Brown announced in London that the fighting is spreading all around Israel, that Jerusalem is "engulfed in war," and that four British diplomatic missions were under attack by mobs in the Middle East.

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant told an emergency session of the Security Council in New York that Jordanian forces had taken over headquarters of the U.N. Truce Supervision Organization in Jerusalem. He sent an appeal to King Hussein of Jordan to order his troops withdrawn.

Thant told the council three Indian soldiers of the U.N. Emergency force were killed in the strafing of a convoy by Israeli planes. The War ministry in Brasilia reported a Brazilian corporal assigned to the force was killed by a bullet in the head as the fighting erupted.

The fighting came about after a series of minor clashes over the last few months across the Syrian-Israeli border, followed by Egypt's command May 17 for the United Nations to withdraw the U.N. Emergency Force that had separated Israel and Egypt on the Sinai frontier and at the Gaza Strip.

In Washington, the White House called on all parties to support the council, and said: "Tragic consequences still flow from this needless and destructive struggle if the fighting does not stop immediately."

Britain expressed grave concern and launched new discussions among the Big Four powers.

Israeli troops broke the three-hour Jordanian siege of the U.N. Truce Commission headquarters during the afternoon and restored control of the area to Lt. Gen. Odd Bull, the U.N. mission commander.

Mayor Teddy Kollek of Israeli Jerusalem announced the Jordanian troops had left the sector, a no-man's land astride the divided city.

The Arabs had moved up to surround the white building, once the home of the British high commissioner in the days of the mandate, while artillery and small arms fire was pumped into the Jewish sector around noon.

The fighting first erupted on the Sinai Desert front between Egyptian and Israeli troops and tanks, then spread to the Syrian and Jordanian fronts. Both sides accused the other of starting the war after weeks of crisis.

Egypt charged Cairo and other Egyptian targets were bombed. Damascus radio reported that Syrian air force planes bombed the oil refinery in Haifa and left it in flames. The broadcast said airfields in northern Israel were heavily damaged. Amman radio said Jordanian planes also took part in the Haifa raid.

Both sides claimed sweeping victories in the air battles, the biggest of which broke out over the Sinai Desert.

Cairo radio claimed 70 Israeli planes had been shot down.

An Israeli Arab-language broadcast claimed Israel had destroyed 150 Egyptian planes.

Damascus radio was even more sweeping, claiming all Israeli planes "vanished from the skies of the battle." The broadcast said three Israeli planes attempting to raid Syria were shot down. Amman radio said Jordanian planes also shot down three Israeli planes in an air battle.

All Arab broadcasts called on the armies to drive the Israelis into the sea.

"Attack, destroy and liberate Palestine," cried Cairo radio.

"The forces of the Arab revolution will not pull back until the Zionists are completely obliterated from our Arab land," said Damascus radio.

"We are on the threshold of the final battle and we hope that God will grant us victory," King Hussein of Jordan said in a broadcast.

Gen. Moshe Dayan, Israel's victorious commander in the Sinai war with Egypt in 1956, declared to his army:

"Soldiers of Israel, we are not setting out for conquest. Our only aim is to frustrate the attempt of the Arab armies to conquer our country."

Dayan said the main task is "to sever and crush the right of blockades and aggression which have been created around us."

The first Israeli-Arab war came as the new state was proclaimed May 15, 1948. Israel was formed out of Palestine, long under British mandate rule. This war was ended in an armistice in 1949, broken in 1956 when Israel, backed by France and Britain, attacked Egypt. That fighting ceased under pressure from the United States and the Soviet Union.

Iraq has been moving troops into Syria and Egypt for more than a week, but there was no report they had gone into ac-

Big Ones Biting At Big Oak Lake

BY LEO SCHADE

BIG OAK STATE PARK - Now that school is out, many children are heading for Big Oak Lake, located on Missouri 102, 12 miles south of East Prairie.

Age is no barrier for fishing at this lake. Boys and girls three and four years old come to the lake and catch their share of fish.

The youngsters have their own fishing techniques. They find that if they throw a few bread crumbs into the water, a number of small fish will swim around the bait. In a short time a child will have four to six inch fish on his line.

Every child is proud of his first catch, no matter how small.

It doesn't end with the small fry here at the lake. If one is proficient at flycasting he will latch onto the large ones.

One lad, Cecil Lee Hammontree, 6, is a veteran at casting and has been at it since he was three. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hammontree Sr., of East Prairie. The entire Hammontree family visits the lake regularly.

The big fish--bass and catfish--are found in the deeper part of the lake. By taking out a boat to the eight and 20-foot depth, a fisherman can catch bass weighing six to seven pounds. Under the deep seaweed, catfish weighing up to 10 pounds have been caught, Cletus Johnson, park superintendent, noted.

The large catfish are found lying under the heavy moss.

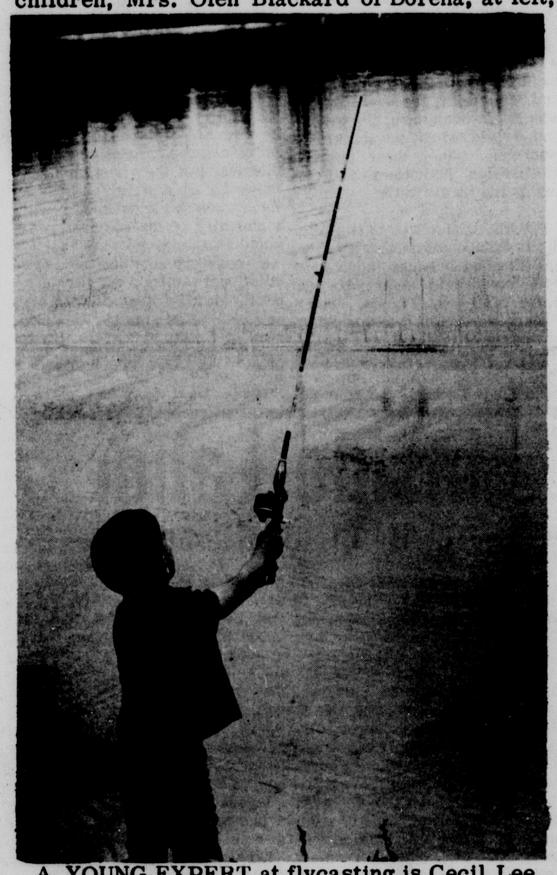
The lake and park are growing in popularity each year. On Memorial Day 1,700 persons came to spend the day at the park.

In the first years of operation the lake had trouble holding water because of the many beaver which inhabit the bar pit surrounding the 25-acre lake. However, at present, they are not damaging the lake.

The adding of a large new well keeps the lake at a given level with fresh water, but one obstacle still remains. The marauding muskrats, which dig into the bank at the water level.

The only way to stop the problem is to lower the water level six to 10 inches.

The park with its mammoth oak trees by the hundreds, the largest to be found in Missouri, together with the large picnic and camping grounds, continue to draw visitors from surrounding states by the thousands each year.



A YOUNG EXPERT at flycasting is Cecil Lee, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil L. Hammontree of East Prairie. He casts his line 50 feet with ease. The lad has been at it since he was three, shortly after Big Oak State Park Lake was opened to the public.

MANY OLDER FISHERMEN would be envious of this catch. Cecil Lee Hammontree, 6, of East Prairie displays six nice-sized perch which he caught while fly-fishing at Big Oak State Park Lake in Mississippi county.

24 Counties Qualify for EDA Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Missouri will have 24 counties with areas qualifying for federal aid to help meet the problems of unemployment and low income for the year beginning July 1.

The announcement was made today by the Economic Development Administration which also announced the state has 13 counties with areas no longer qualifying for EDA assistance.

Missouri counties with areas still eligible for full economic help, from public works to business loans, are: Carter, Dallas, Douglas, Dunklin, Iron, Madison, Mississippi, New Madrid, Ozark, Pemiscot, Phelps, Putnam, Ripley, Taney, Wayne, Webster, Wright and Worth.

Those still eligible for public works grants are Miller, St. Francois, Stone and Washington.

Counties no longer eligible for full financial assistance are Butler, Hickory, Morgan, Oregon, Perry, Reynolds and Shannon. Those which no longer will receive public works grants are Barry, Bollinger, Dent, Lafayette, Sullivan and Texas.

Review Improvements for Mentally Retarded in State

State plans for improving the lot of mentally retarded were reviewed Sunday afternoon at the annual regional meeting of the 9th District Association for Mentally Retarded at the community room of Security National Bank.

Joe Weber, Dexter, was re-elected by acclamation as the group's regional vice president. He explained at the outset that the group would not transact any business, but could make recommendations at the State Board, which in turn makes recommendations at the state convention through the state associations.

Units represented at the meeting included the associations for retarded children from Sikeston, Dexter, Cape Girardeau and Charleston.

Dr. Russell Crider, president of the state association for retarded children, explained that the overall purpose of the state organization is to help "all" mentally retarded children.

Dr. Crider served as a local unit president of St. Charles county for several years before he became state president. He reviewed some of the early problems faced by organization for the retarded:

Evaluation of the child to determine if he was retarded was one of the most common problems of the early associations, he said.

The present efforts grew from school and a pre-school program organized in St. Louis through the efforts of interested persons in a school donated by the St. Louis School system.

The state then took over the training of those children who were educable, he continued.

Dr. Crider pointed out that it is now mandatory that all children in a school district in Missouri attend school until age 21. Slow learners must now be provided for by local school district.

A mandatory state training program is now administered through state direction at Jefferson City, he noted.

The object is to get the child out of the home and into the schools to teach him to the limits of his capabilities, Dr. Crider said.

Providing for the retarded person who is unable to work in competition after schooling referred to as custodial care still needs a lot of development, he continued.

The problem of what to do with the child after schooling has been answered partially by the sheltered workshop programs, he continued.

Under the provisions of the extended sheltered workshop bill passed by the state legislature, some persons eventually can go out into competitive industry. Others remain in the workshop, where they perform manual tasks making useful items for government and private industry contracts.

One such workshop in Cape Girardeau makes coils for radios and televisions. Sheltered workshops are subsidized by the state.

Dr. Crider noted that the problems of the mentally retarded are never ending. Only a cooperative program and unified effort by interested persons can accomplish meaningful results, he said.

Complimenting the state legislators, Dr. Crider noted that they are well versed in the problems of the retarded and could be proud of the nine regional diagnositic centers now being

Judge Sentences Speck to Death in Electric Chair

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Richard Speck, 25, was sentenced today to die in the electric chair Sept. 1 for murdering eight young nurses in their Chicago dormitory last year.

In pronouncing sentence, Judge Herbert C. Paschen of Circuit Court carried out the recommendation of the jury that convicted Speck on April 15. The jury recommended death but the judge was not bound to impose the maximum penalty.

The sentencing put in motion what is expected to be a series of drawn-out appeals.

An appeal to a higher court is automatic in cases involving capital punishment and the procedures for making such appeals nearly always take a great deal of time.

For example, there are eight condemned men in the Cook County jail. Through various avenues of appeal they have managed to avoid execution for two to 13 years.

Speck's lawyer, Gerald W. Getty, said he would fight a death sentence "through all the courts in the land."

Speck was found guilty of rounding up nine young nurses in their dormitory at night and slaying eight of them, either stabbing or strangling.

The ninth nurse, Corazon Amurao, 23, a Philippine exchange student, escaped by hiding under a bed.

She was the state's principal witness at Speck's trial and pointed him out as the killer.

Speck, a 25-year-old drifter, was transported from the Cook County Jail to the Peoria County jail Sunday under heavy guard. Speck was tried in Peoria after Getty contended he could not get a fair trial in Chicago.

In the latest of a series of moves in Speck's behalf, Getty brought a psychiatrist to a hearing Friday. The psychiatrist testified that Speck had a serious mental disease and could not control his behavior at times of high tension.

But the prosecution pointed out that five psychiatrists and a general doctor had agreed last fall that Speck was mentally competent.

Time Is Running out for Passing Legislative Bills

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — With only four weeks of the session left, today was the last day for the Missouri Senate to debate its own bills.

The House has set no such deadline but the time factor will take care of that.

As floor work steps up and committee action slacks off, hundreds of bills are doomed to die from neglect.

The top bill on the Senate calendar today was one to legalize abortion if two doctors certify it is necessary for the health of the mother or child.

The conference committee on the main appropriation bills continued its work and Sen. J.F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, the Senate chairman, said the committee has a good chance to finish this week. That would put the bills in position for passage next week.

Two important school bills come up before the House Education Committee tonight.

One would increase state aid to junior colleges and the other would provide state aid for kindergarten pupils. Both have passed the Senate.

Tuesday night the Senate

Funds Granted For Center At Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD - The Federal Housing Authority at Bloomfield has released $115,000 to the Crowley Ridge Recreational Center Club for development of the center to be built near the Bloomfield city park.

Upon completion, the center will have a nine-hole golf course, a swimming pool and a clubhouse.

An additional $28,000 will be required to complete the costs of the center, Cecil Thorn, manager of the Bloomfield FHA office, said. The additional money was needed, because of the rising costs since the project was started two years ago. More land will also have to be cleared than was first anticipated.

The golf course and irrigation system contract has been awarded to Houston Clark of Bloomfield at a low bid of $56,874. Construction will begin this week, Thorn said.

The 30 by 70 foot swimming pool will have to be cut to meet the present planned budget, he added.

Membership dues have been paid by 140 persons as of last week, and 155 membership dues must be paid before other contracts can be released.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Some of the emphasis placed on making the post office pay its way are ridiculous but some of the fringe benefits of the effort are good.

For many years newspapers, magazines, books and other materials have gone through the mails at a subsidized rate. It is true that a subsidy cannot be justified to the extent that it could when the printed word was the only means of communication but it is still desirable and necessary.

Newspapers and magazines pay much more of their share of postage costs than they did even a few years ago. The public still benefits from the comparatively low postage rates.

If rural free delivery patrons ever were compelled to pay their fair share of the costs of mail brought to their boxes they would be forced to expend far more than city dwellers for postal service.

Farmers would really raise the roof in protesting any such effort. The present system shouldn't be abandoned. It's a worthwhile universal service. Costs are secondary.

But the post office's recent concern with showing a profit has produced other benefits.

Competition and cost consciousness has accomplished what years of effort by private enterprise interests has failed to do.

The post office has decided that it really doesn't want to pay high interest rates and to compete with banks and savings and loan institutions.

It has ceased issuing postal savings certificates - a victim of the government's own tight money policies.

Business declined. This impressed Congress.

So bankers accomplished rapidly what they had been seeking in vain for a half century to accomplish.

Similarily printers have tried without success to persuade the post office to cease selling printed envelopes.

Although the post office still sells them profit consciousness of the post office department has caused the rate to be raised so that the nation's taxpayers no longer heavily subsidize the printing presses.

It is much easier now for printers to compete with the federal government. They offer faster service, more flexibility in ink colors, size, paper quality and color and permit advertising messages.

Price differences are no longer as sharp as they once were.

If the post office department always had been as conscious of profits as it is today it never would have sold either postal savings or printed envelopes.

THE LONG ARRANGEMENT

U.S. Senator Edward V. Long has announced he intends to determine if the Internal Revenue Service leaked information to Life magazine concerning legal fees he is receiving from St. Louis attorney Morris Shenker.

We can certainly understand why Senator Long would be upset over any IRS disclosure, although we suspect that IRS is innocent of the good Senator's charges. When more than one person knows something, it no longer is a secret, and Shenker's associates in St. Louis and behind prison bars are perhaps not always as discreet as they should be.

Senator Long still denies any conflict of interest in his legal association with the Shenker law firm which in recent years has paid him each year approximately what the Governor of Missouri receives in salary.

Missouri's junior Senator may be telling the truth when he denies that any of his legal association with Shenker involves federal agencies. Yet Shenker's own law firm, as distinguished from Long's own law firm, deals very directly with federal agencies in Washington. And when an attorney has a U.S. Senator on his payroll, it is much easier to deal with federal agencies. Thus the fee arrangement, as far as Shenker was concerned, was of material benefit. The fee arrangement, as far as Long was concerned, was also of material benefit, in the amount of $24,000 a year material benefit.

The only persons who haven't benefitted from the arrangement are the citizens of Missouri.

We expect they will make other and more satisfactory arrangements when Senator Long comes around for another six-year "retainer" in next year's election. - Daily Dunklin Democrat

Life and death were just 15 hours apart for a Texas motorist whose car slammed into the supports for a big freeway exit sign when he was forced off the road in a blinding rainstorm.

A year earlier, another driver had demolished his car against the same sign's rigid supports and died of his injuries.

This driver was luckier. Just 15 hours before, a highway department crew had installed new breakaway supports for the sign. The driver and his passengers were not hurt, and his car sustained only $500 in damages.

It was the first "live" test for the new signs, which are designed to crack in the middle and give way when struck by a moving vehicle.

Last year, the signs were tested extensively in collisions with driverless cars. Crashes were recorded by high-speed cameras, and research teams studied the films to assess dynamics of various sign structures during collision.

The basic features of the breakaway sign support are a slip joint at its base and a break plate at the bottom of the sign face. The slip joint allows the sign post to slip free of its foundation on impact. The cast-iron plate cracks the post when it is hit, creating a hinge effect that allows the crashing auto to pass under the collapsing structure safely.

Although more research on the break-away sign is underway, the current model is being installed in various parts of the state to field test the basic design.

"We think we've arrived at a workable sign, one that will save lives, but don't consider the current model the ultimate," reports D.C. Greer, Texas state highway engineer.

The signs were developed in a joint research project by the Texas Highway Department and the Texas Transportation Institute of Texas A&M University, in cooperation with the Bureau of Public Roads.

RIESEL BEATS COUNTRY ON REUTHER POLITICAL ACTION STORY

What Walter Reuther does is always national news - off as well as on the auto front. For years he has funneled millions of dollars into political action in cooperation with labor's highly efficient and sometimes automated political action committee.

Recently his auto union cut off its contributions to this political committee. This went unnoticed until the story - which will have impact on the 1967 and especially the 1968 elections - was dug up by our columnist Victor Riesel.

Riesel filed the story on May 24.

A week later, on May 30, this story was corroborated, virtually word for word, by the union and it made wire service stories and headlines across the country.

As always, when Riesel is not atop the news he is well ahead of it.

BIG BROTHER AT WORK

"The federal government's munificence towards all the people in supplying all their electrical needs, present and projected, is the poetized subject of a colored film produced and paid for by the federal government."

So reports the magazine Electrical World. The film in question is entitled "Power for the Nation" and runs for 28 minutes. It is a professional job, which makes the most of the attractions of film media. And it is clearly designed to make the viewer believe that the federal government is and should be a Great White Father in bringing the blessings of electric power to the consumers of this nation.

It is true that the investor-owned utilities are mentioned. But it is a passing mention. The viewer of the film who had no other sources of information would never know that these utilities serve some 79 per cent of electric users, that they have been primarily responsible for technological advances that have assured us the most dependable and abundant power supply in the world at an extremely modest cost, and that they are a major taxpayer to every unit of government from the hamlet to the federal treasury.

The stress of the film is on the federal dams and nothing is spared to maximize their virtues -- not only in power production, but in navigation, recreation, irrigation and so on. Even Passamaquoddy comes into the picture - though Congress has not authorized it, and experts regard it as being as dubious a venture now as when it was first proposed.

Thus is the taxpayer's money being splurged on an expensive film to promote old world socialism instead of building confidence and pride in the achievements of United States free enterprise. Thus does Big Brother work.

President Johnson, referring to those who are calling for the United States to halt its bombing of North Viet Nam, said the other day that "I don't quite understand why you want me to have our Marines and airmen pause and put their hands behind their backs while the other people don't pause and continue to shoot at them."

Most Americans will share the President's inability to understand this reasoning. But something they will find even more difficult to understand is why this country has supplied, and apparently still is supplying, the enemy with much of the wherewithal he needs to continue shooting at our soldiers, Marines and airmen.

According to the House Government Operations Committee, cling testimony taken last May from the deputy director of the Agency for International Development (AID) mission to Saigon, "at least 60 per cent of the aid is diverted from the purpose for which it is intended."

In the fiscal year ending in June, a total of $728 million in economic aid, including $420 million in consumer goods, was pumped into South Viet Nam. This is exclusive of military aid, and exclusive of what 300,000 GIs are spending on their own.

Large amounts of AID shipments have been diverted to the Viet Cong, says the committee. Some of it has found its way to Cambodia, Thailand and Communist China.

Not quite as bad, but bad enough, is that all this aid has flooded a South Vietnamese economy too small to absorb it, contributing to graft, corruption and black marketing.

A nine-month investigation is summed up in the committee's 125-page report with a charge of "unconscionable mismanagement" and "general abdication of responsibility" on the part of the Departments of State and Defense, the General Accounting Office, the U.S. Information Agency and, particularly, AID.

The committee acknowledges that "many effective steps" have been taken, before and since the investigation, to plug the leaks and correct the abuses in the aid program.

What the taxpaying public would like to know is, have ALL the necessary steps been taken, and if not, why not? And why was such a situation allowed to develop in the first place?

It may be some comfort to know that the United States is rich enough to finance both its own troops and the enemy's, make contributions to the economies of three other nations and create black market millionaires on the side without seriously straining itself. But it is a strange way to run a war.

Maybe we should start bombing our own supply lines.

ON ONE of Groucho Marx's television programs, relates Bert Barnes of New York, there appeared a 102-year-old man who matched wits quite successfully with the professional comedian. When asked why he was so cheerful, the oldster said: "Every morning when I get out of bed I have two choices: to be happy or to be unhappy. I always choose to be happy."

YEARS AGO a bank in New Orleans issued notes in both French and English because there were so many people in that city who could read only French. On the French ten-dollar note was printed the word "dix," which means ten. It was the most popular of these notes, and in time was called a "dixie." The bank became known as the bank of the "dixies," and little by little, the South was nicknamed the "land of dixies."

BEST FOR SMALL STATES

Recently in Washington, D.C., I was surprised to find some Congressmen from small states in favor of abolishing the Electoral College and providing for election of the President and Vice President by direct vote. Such a plan would penalize their own states.

The Electoral College system was one of the fundamental tenets used by the Founders of Freedom in making the United States a Republic. A bonus voting power in the Electoral College was provided the small states to induce them to join in forming the Republic. This was accomplished by giving each state, no matter how small, two electors at large plus one elector for each Congressional District.

Today four of the small states, Alaska, Nevada, Wyoming and Vermont, have a combined population of 1,230,000 and 12 electoral votes, giving the people of these states one presidential elector per 100,000 population. The people of New York and California, by contrast, have a voting power of one electoral vote for about 391,608 population.

The bonus voting power will be retained under the Congressional District Plan for reforming the Electroal College. Under this plan, every state would continue to have two electors at large and one for each Congressional District. But the system under which all of a state's electoral votes goes to the candidate with a plurality of the popular vote would be abandoned.

Several resolutions for a constitutional amendment to change the Electoral College system are now before Congress. Good citizens owe it to their country to seek publicity for or against them so the people may be informed. HLH.

PROFILES IN TERROR

Ten Confidential FBI Reports to Hoover Reveal Vast Powers of Cosa Nostra's Own Supreme Court.

Providence, R.I.: -- For the first time an hour by hour, kaledioscopic view of daily life in the Mafia -- plotting, terror, disciplining of recalcitrant sons, developing of enterprising shakedowns and businesses, manipulating of some local unions and even a method of getting a favor from an official, now a famed U.S. Senator, is available in a most authoritative sheaf of documents.

As though these papers were the script for an episodic mod movie, they disclose threats by the alledged Cosa Nostra chief to declare martial law in Boston; his directive to a young tough to telephone his mother twice a week and an ingenious plan to shake down 400 doctors.

All this and a bloody lot more are in a set of 10 raw reports dispatched to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover by his Special Agent In Charge of the bureau's Boston headquarters.

These reports are in the Federal Court docket here because they were subpoenaed some time ago by the defense in an Internal Revenue Case. In them are a score of stories -- not the least of which is the alledged Mafia boss' opinion that Joe Bonanno had himself kidnapped to deceive the national crime syndicate's ruling "Commission."

But far more important, it seems to me, than the interwoven series of vignettes is the ceaseless activity of the Cosa Nostra: its reaching into such areas as Maine which experts long had thought clean of the Mafia; its high courts and supreme power over every hour -- waking or sleeping -- of its bosses, dons, and troops.

After analyzing and reanalyzing these documents, it is certain that the Mafia is as all-pervading in vast sections of New England, from the Connecticut border up to Maine, as it is in New York, sections of New Jersey, parts of Florida; areas of Louisiana, up and down the Mississippi River, and Chicago.

A Connecticut union official, for example, is described as "hiring only union members with criminal records." And there is the thug who wants to get himself on another local union's pension roster.

Another report, obviously based on wiretapping or some form of electronic wizardry, records the plaint of a tough supplicant to the alleged boss who himself is a Commission member. The appellant tells the chief that he wants his son to telephone the mother at least twice a week and send her $10 regularly because she is not well. The boss rules that the boy must call his mother twice a week, send the $10 and visit the elderly lady at least once every two weeks.

At another time there is recorded the talk of a hood and the alleged Cosa Nostra czar about a scheme to force two medical groups in New York to merge. There are 400 in all and at $100 a piece each for initiation fees, it sounds like a good thing.

"Doctors scare easily," says the schemer, according to these court records. The FBI report states that when the Mafia man "met one of the doctors, he (the doctor) 'knew who we were and what it was all about'." The FBI reports this as an effort to shake down the doctors and quotes the Cosa Nostra operative as saying, "we'll get in there somehow."

The power of the national Mafia Commission to reach into labor, business and the professions is vast because the Cosa Nostra operations are vast. The Justice Dept.'s Criminal Division has amassed 300,000 index cards reflecting the movements of more than 3,000 syndicate "principals."

Despite all the talk of an anti-crime crusade, the 3,000 figure is an increase of 600 principals during the past fiscal year.

Yet the entire Criminal Division, of which the Organized Crime and Racketeering section is but part, has asked only for $3,777,500 for the 1968 fiscal year. This is just an increase of $176,800 over 1967. Why so little?

Why have only eight new attorneys been sought for the fight against the kind of organized crime outlined in the FBI documents?

Why does the labor rackets unit, which fights as much to preserve clean unions and safeguard small businesses as fights the looting, now have only five lawyers? It would take that many just to do a good job on the new probe into some New England locals.

Why are there a large "number of areas" according to the Justice Dept., covered by a single Criminal Division lawyer, when each district should have its own?

Doesn't anyone on the Congressional Appropriations Committee read the reports? They're up here for the asking.

Or is no one very much interested in asking?

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Rep. Manny Celler, distinguished and much-loved elder statesman from Brooklyn, has promised to pass a crime institute bill for research into crime, but he seems just a bit skittish about J. Edgar Hoover and another Brooklyn congressman, John Rooney. Celler is shying away from putting any authorization for crime research into the new anti-crime bill proposed by President Johnson.

The latter bill will pass fairly soon, though not under the original name -- the "safe streets" bill. Republicans didn't like this title because privately they plan to use safe streets as a campaign issue against Johnson in 1968. The legislation has been tagged "the national crime bill."

Meanwhile, Rep. James Scheuer, a New York Democrat who comes from the Bronx, not Brooklyn, worked out a comprehensive plan for research into the causes of crime, how to get more community support for the police, and cures for crime. Scheuer proposed a new assistant attorney general in the justice department to handle this.

However, J. Edgar Hoover objected. Over the years Hoover has always protested when anyone in the justice department wanted to backstop the FBI. This was the basic reason for the long-standing feud between Hoover and Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy.

Rep. Scheuer tried to sell his idea to Attorney General Ramsey Clark, who liked it but stated frankly that he could not take on J. Edgar Hoover. Hoover has now received his third dispensation to serve beyond the statutory retirement age of 70. He is now 73. Ramsey, a young man coming up in the government, shied away from any showdown.

Also opposing the idea of any research into crime is crusty, cantankerous John Rooney, the Brooklyn congressman who rides herd on justice department appropriations. If he won't vote the money for research into the cause and cure of crime, the money isn't going to be voted.

Republicans, however, are not so easily intimidated. Robert McClory, Republic of Illinois, has now introduced Scheuer's bill in the judiciary committee and proposes to push it whether J. Edgar Hoover or John Rooney like it or not.

FLORIDA GIVEAWAY

An innocuous looking bill, so technical most senators won't pay much attention to it, comes up in the senate commerce committee tomorrow (June 6). Actually it will drive a hole bigger than a 10-ton truck through the federal power commission, the agency entrusted with protecting the public from being gouged by the big gas, oil and power companies.

The bill is the pet of two Florida senators, white - haired Spessard Holland and handsome George Smathers. It would give the Florida power and light company special exemption from the federal power commission on the ground that it is not in interstate commerce.

The commission, after lengthy hearings, recently held that Florida power and light did operate in interstate commerce. So what the two senators have done is to introduce a bill which, if passed, would overrule the power commission. In effect, it's a private bill aimed at giving special privilege to the ninth largest utility in the nation.

Last year a clumsily drawn bill aimed at the same exemption was narrowly defeated in the senate commerce committee 9 to 8, with all Republicans plus Republicrat Frank Lausche of Ohio and Howard Cannon, Democrat of Las Vegas, Nev., voting for the big utility. The Republicans supporting the private bonanza for the Florida utility included Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Norris Cotton of New Hampshire, whose states are big power consumers; also Thruston Morton, Ky., Winston Prouty, Vt., and Bob Griffin, Mich.

This time Florida power and light was smarter. It hired astute Mike Feldman, former counsel to President Kennedy, and he has done a much better job of drafting the bill.

UNIQUE RECORD

However, Florida power and light comes before the senate with a highly interesting record. In the first place a utility consultant hired by Miami estimates it overcharged its customers by millions of dollars while operating under the complacent Florida Public Service Commission.

Second, it was Benjamin Fugua, vice president of Florida power, who lobbied with the late Richard Mack, a federal communications commissioner later indicted in the case, regarding Miami's scandal-ridden channel 10. McGregor Smith, Chairman of Florida power and light, and Fugua also intervened with commissioner Mack regarding another TV application.

While Florida power wants to undercut the FPC, both President Kennedy and President Johnson have built it up. Kennedy appointed tough Joe Swidler as chairman, while Johnson has appointed Lee White to replace him. Meanwhile, Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., staunch friend of the consumer, is repairing an administration bill which not only would block the Holland-Smathers giveaway but intermingle interstate power so as to prevent blackouts similar to that which paralyzed New York Nov. 9, 1965.

Food Buying Habits Change

KENNETT - Buying habits in the food market are changing and the make-up of our population effects this considerably. There are 50 million more people in the United States than there were in 1943.

Family groups shopping on Friday evenings or Saturday are nothing uncommon in the markets. With more and more women working outside of the home convenience, better quality, built-in service have overshadowed some other factors. Homemakers are willing to pay for service and convenience. Shopping decisions are made by 84 percent women and men share 10-1/2 percent of the decisions.

The changing shopping patterns are influenced by age. Civic demand for the age group 30 to 45 years is high. Over one-half of consumers are buying for three or less while one-fourth are buying for three or more.

Impulse buying has its impact on the shopper. Less than one-third of the shoppers check newspaper ads before shopping and only 37 percent carry shopping lists according to a survey. This accounts for the reason 69 percent of all the items you buy are bought on impulse. The impulse buying in the frozen foods department amount to 82 percent of the sales.

The demand for convenience has stimulated the food industry's constant search for products, ways to improve old ones and for better packages.

Some of the packaging which add to convenience are the smoke meat paper which does not breathe. Packaged fresh meats are wrapped in shrink film which breathe or rather allow air to reach the meat. For this reason the wrapper need not be removed when the shrink film is used.

Have you used the eight cent rule when buying eggs? If there is eight cents difference in the price of the same quality eggs between the sizes next to it, they are the same price per pound. For instance if there is less than eight cents difference between the medium and large eggs, the large eggs are the better buy.

Report Shows More Regard for Play Is Needed

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Christians need to have more regard for play, and less for work.

That's the conclusion of a three-year study carried out by a special commission of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

"We should emphasize play because there is so much in our intellectual atmosphere that is destructive of the play spirit," the report says.

The study was made in an effort to assess new conditions arising through mounting production requiring less human labor, resulting in increasing leisure. It was aimed to bring Biblical perspectives to bear on the situation.

Up to now, the Protestant ethic has "glorified economic labor" and sometimes has appeared "to be more of a commercial ideology than a Christian doctrine of man," the report says.

"Part of our mental furniture is that 'every man should work for what he gets.' The man who lives off the labors of another is judged guilty of the sin of sloth; he is more than unclean; he is somehow less than a man."

However, the findings stress that "neither toil nor compensated labor is glorified by Scripture as the ultimate spiritual necessity. God's gift of partnership is not a sentence to eternal drudgery; neither is the pay check the chief end of man."

In fact, the Scriptures themselves "are playful" in spirit, and see experiences as "worthwhile in themselves," without their being productive of goods or income, the report says.

"The ideal man of the Bible was the leisured man. For him leisure was not simply 'time off.' He was a man of freedom—free to choose his activity. His choice was most often to pursue truth and knowledge, especially of God," the report adds.

In the middle 20th century, it is pointed out, fewer people are needed to supply agricultural and other needs, and predictions are that eventually 10 per cent of the populace can perform all the work needed for the physical welfare of all people.

"The Christian church is called upon to speak about 'play' as a crucial element in the leisure of liberation" and "to broaden its understanding of leisure beyond that which justifies leisure only as the producer of a desired end—a product."

The need was seen for more recognition of the value of doing things simply "for the sake of beauty, joy and the fullness of living. The mystics, the romanticists, and the poets have seen this playful spirit in Christianity in a way that the utilitarian West often has not."

The report, which the United Presbyterian governing assembly last week ordered circulated throughout the 3.3-million-member denomination, was prepared by a group including businessmen, sociologists, government experts, psychologists, pastors, theologians and others.

Sikeston, Missouri
Dear Sir:

One year ago the tanker Manuela, in International waters, approached Beira harbor. The British warship Berwick, directed by Fleet Admiral Wilson, waived the rules, closed with the Manuela, boarded her with twelve armed men and ordered her to turn back.

Victory was total. The Manuela agreed to proceed on a southerly course away from Beira. To this day British warships exercise a limited blockade of Beria harbor as British merchantmen haul supplies to unblockaded Haiphong.

Now the hypocritical Admiral is wearing his Peace - Diplomat hat and pleads with all maritime nations to sign a joint declaration of freedom of the seas.

Under the bankrupt United Nations banner, the Free World coexists with evil by expediency and accommodation. The Soviet NO cancels out action; initiates fearful discretion. Free World architects design and attempt to build bridges of understanding subverters.

National pride and love of freedom is on the wane but considerable remains with the Israeli people and government. The Israels' may be able to open their own back door in spite of the hand wringing of Harold Wilson and the pleas of U. Flood's Errorless Game Streak Ended at 227

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitcher Rich Nye's routine fly ended Curt Flood's National League record string of errorless games at 227, but the Cardinals Lou Brock saved Flood from the humiliation of losing the game.

Flood, upset and disappointed, following the Cards' 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Sunday, said he felt the error "could have gone either way."

"The center fielder is supposed to go after every ball he can get to," Flood said. "If he calls the other player is supposed to leave it."

The other player— Lou Brock —and Flood both called for the ball. They both yelled again for the ball just as Nye's fifth-inning fly ball came down. Then, Flood said, the two bumped elbows. It was Flood's first error in 553 chances.

Nye went to second on the play. He moved up on an infield out and scored on Glen Beckert's sacrifice fly. The run broke a 2-2 tie.

Brock, who had hit homer No. 13 in the first inning, singled in the eighth inning to break a 3-3 tie and score Dave Ricketts with the winning run.

The victory went to rookie Dick Hughes, who allowed the Cubs only three hits.

The National League-leading Reds ran up a 5-0 lead against Atlanta Sunday, then held off the Braves 5-4 for their fourth straight victory. It was the 14th one-run game for the Reds in their last 15.

Cincinnati's third one-run verdict over Atlanta in three days protected the Reds three-game lead over second place St. Louis. Third place San Francisco swept a doubleheader from the fading New York Mets 7-0 and 5-0, Pittsburgh trimmed Los Angeles 4-1 and Philadelphia overcame Houston 6-1 in other games.

Kansas City divided an American League doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox, winning the nightcap 5-4 after bowing 2-0, while Detroit slammed New York 11-7 in 13 innings after the Yankees took the doubleheader opener 5-0, Cleveland blanked Boston 3-0, Minnesota shaded California 8-7 in 10 innings and Baltimore outlasted Washington 7-9 in 19 innings.

The Reds' string of squeakers — interrupted only by a 6-1 victory at Pittsburgh two weeks ago — began on May 21 with a 2-1 loss to Philadelphia in 18 innings. They have broken even in the 14 one-run games, which include four overtime struggles.

Andy Etchebarren, unable to bunt, summoned enough energy to launch the high-flying Baltimore Orioles into the air, taking along a couple of patient young baseball fans who must have been flying even higher.

Etchebarren, after failing to bunt twice, cracked a two-run home run in the 19th inning that lifted the Orioles over Washington 7-5, Sunday, ending the longest game of the baseball season.

Dick McAuliffe did not wait as long to send the Detroit Tigers back into first place in the American League as he blasted a grand slam homer in the 13th inning for an 11-7 victory over the New York Yankees in the nightcap of their twinbill. New York won the opener 2-0.

McAuliffe unloaded his ninth season homer and fifth career slam with two out after Bill Freehan doubled and loser Dooley Womack walked two.

Winner, Worker Gagliano Brings Series to Memphis

By CHARLES CAVAGNARO
OF THE SPORTING NEWS

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Since the burning of Russwood Park in 1960 and the subsequent decline and fall of the Southern League's Memphis Chicks, one name has dominated baseball activity in the Mid-South.

Tony Gagliano, whose efforts have gone beyond the playing field in recent years, has taken command in Memphis. His American Legion clubs have won nine of the last ten Tennessee championships and advanced to the finals of the Legion World Series twice in the last four years.

Even though the 50-year-old Gagliano has posted a record of 285 victories and only 50 defeats in Legion activity since 1957, his two most recent projects have meant far more to area fans.

His initial venture was to spearhead the construction of a new baseball diamond in the Fairgrounds. The field has 2,500 sheltered seats and is being expanded to almost 5,000 for tournament play.

The field was built in 1963 and is regarded as one of the finest American Legion and schoolboy diamonds in the area. It took many appearances at city hearings and an untold amount of behind-the-scene maneuverings before Gagliano and Memphis' 20 other Legion coaches could play at the Fairgrounds.

Once this was accomplished, he turned his attention toward still another important project - the Legion World Series.

Tony Landed '67 Finals

With the same determination, Gagliano almost singlehandedly won the nod of the Legion's Americanism Commission. The 1967 tournament is scheduled at the Fairgrounds, August 31-September 5.

During Gagliano's 10-year career at the helm of Legion teams basically composed of athletes from Christian Brothers High School, he has sent 11 players into professional baseball.

These athletes received total bonuses estimated at $315,000. The Cardinals plucked three Gagliano prizes, the Yankees a pair and the remainder signed with the Angels, Dodgers, Reds, Indians, Giants and Red Sox.

The premier bonus baby was catcher Tim McCarver, who signed with the Cardinals in 1959 for an estimated $75,000. Tim has proved well worth it.

The other major leaguer from Gagliano's Gang is Phil Gagliano, Cardinal third baseman. Phil, the coach's nephew, signed in 1960 for a conservative $15,000. He and McCarver were teammates at Christian Brothers High School.

Still another Gagliano has made his mark in professional ball. Ralph, a younger brother of Phil, reportedly received $60,000 from the Indians in 1964.

Two other standouts were bracketed in the $40,000 range Pitcher John Schroeppel, who headed the Bill Speros Legion club to a 35-2 record in 1963 (best in the nation), is a top prospect with Binghamton (Eastern,) the Yankees' Double-A club.

Shortstop Buddy Lawhorn, captain of the 1965 club, signed with the Angels last year.

Won Two Series Berths

Schroeppel and Lawhorn were the leading figures in Gagliano's two greatest Legion successes. Schroeppel's 1963 club advanced to the World Series in Keene, N.H., while Lawhorn led the 1965 entry to the finals at Aberdeen, S.D.

The Gagliano magic touch extended to high school baseball from 1958 until 1964. Tennessee's athletic association passed a ruling in 1964 prohibiting a non-salaried teacher from the coaching paths. Gagliano, a successful Memphis businessman who refuses a salary, was moved to the sidelines.

During his seven-year schoolboy span, he registered a 116-20 won-loss record, including three state championships.

But for a cool 1935 spring day at spring training in Florida, Gagliano, a pitcher, might have made his mark in professional baseball. He was signed by the Giants and was sent to Nashville. He hurt his right arm in a game against Chattanooga and the curve-ball specialist never made the grade.

After his professional days, he joined a club in the All-Memphis League, a fast amateur circuit.

One of Mid-South's Best

Gagliano, named to an all-time Memphis Legion club picked in the early 1950's, is still regarded as one of the best pitchers in Mid-South history. When only 14 years old, he pitched John A. Denie's to the city's runner-up honors.

He pitched three more seasons of Legion baseball, leading his club to the state championship in 1933. In his final Legion season, he posted a 15-1 record, averaging 13 strikeouts a game. His only loss was in the regional at Gastonia, N.C.

Only a bullet could slow Tony's vigorous pace this spring. On May 23, while talking to police after a burglary at his store, a gun he was carrying discharged and struck him in the left leg.

The wound wasn't considered serious and friends expected him to bounce back quickly - winning and working as usual.

Dalton Named To Scottish Rite Schools Group

ST. LOUIS - Former Governor and Attorney General John M. Dalton has been appointed chairman of the Missouri Scottish Rite committee for the free public schools, it was announced today by Walter C. Ploeser, Missouri Deputy to the Supreme Council of the Scottish Rite, Washington, D.C.

The committee, which will include representatives from the four Scottish Rite Valleys of Missouri including St. Louis, St. Joseph, Joplin and Kansas City, will meet to formulate plans.

At the same time, it was announced that the committee will develop liaison with other groups dedicated to the same goal.

Pointing out that the Scottish Rite, the largest branch of Freemasonry, is committed to all-out support of the public schools as the basic educational foundation of the United States, Dalton stated that the problems the public schools are encountering, particularly in the urban areas, "have become critical."

"We cannot permit this situation to continue," the former governor said. "Therefore, the Scottish Rite will do everything in its power to obtain the increased financial and other assistance they so desperately require.

Son of Canolou Couple Featured In Ohio Paper

The Rev. Grady Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Evans of Canalou, was featured in a story in a Cincinnati paper.

The Rev. Mr. Evans was reared in Canalou and received his bachelor of science degree from Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau.

The story:

"Most men have a hobby, golf, fishing or hunting. This is mine."

That's the simple explanation given by Rev. Grady Evans for a flock of extracurricular chores such as talking to Bible classes, directing evangelistic meetings, visiting homes and hospitals, conducting summer church camps.

They are extra because he also has two full-time jobs. He's pastor of Riverside Baptist church and a counselor at Woodward high school.

Adding interest to his story is the fact that this 31-year-old man was paralyzed by polio in all limbs before he was two years old. Physicians at three hospitals advised his parents to "Make him comfortable . . . death was inevitable."

But one doctor at a Holland hospital, more optimistic, prescribed constant massage and as Rev. Mr. Evans described, "for many many hours my mother litterally gave her life massaging paralyzed limbs."

Beside the massage, every possible treatment and corrective surgery in many hospitals in three states were given and, progressively, crutches and braces were discarded as successful surgery was performed.

As further therapy, after he was 10 years old, his father encouraged him to do farm chores, chopping, picking cotton, driving tractors and self - propelled combines.

Today, a slight limp is the only reminder of a childhood of physical suffering.

On the spiritual side, he has acquired "a divine gift of endurance" and a philosophy that "handicaps are only obstacles in a game of life. To win is victory!"

His parents also expected him to attend church services three times a week. This, too, influenced him because in his words, "It was the beginning of an eternal blessing."

His goal when he entered college was to become a physician, a medical missionary and perhaps a psychiatrist. But he changed his mind. As he told it:

"When I met a marvelous nurse, plans were slightly altered. Instead of entering the medical field, I married one who already had. Instead of becoming a foreign missionary, I became to have one. Instead of being a psychiatrist, as a counselor it is my privilege to be able to refer to psychiatrists those who need such assistance."

The Job Corps provides basic education and vocational training for out-of-school, out-of-work or underemployed young men and women between 16 and 21 years.

McBee has been managing editor, The Pleasant Hill Times, editor, The Register, Denver; a reporter for the Kansas City Star; associate editor of Bailey Publications, Independence; a writer for Westminster College, Fulton; editor for an Air Force weekly at Salina, Kan., and has worked in the advertising field.

He is secretary of the Kansas City area transportation authority and the Pleasant Hill planning and zoning commission; advisory trustee, Research hospital and Medical Center: a member of the alumni council, Westminster College and the Richards-Gebaur Air Base community council and the board of directors, Bureau of Information, Kansas City-St. Joseph Diocese. He served two terms as president of the Pleasant Hill Chamber of Commerce.

A graduate of Westminster College, he holds a bachelor of arts degree in political science. He is a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity.

June Weather Should Be Near Normal

PORTAGEVILLE - Temperatures over the Missouri Bootheel are expected to average near normal through June. Precipitation patterns anticipated over the middle of the nation suggest near normal rainfall for Missouri's southeast counties, but above normal over the balance of the states.

Centers of major high pressure systems will follow a path across the northern Plains through the Great Lakes region. This will permit occasional intrustions of cool air into the area. High pressure concentration over the southeast corner of the nation will account for warm, humid southerly winds flowing out of the Gulf region.

The path of most low pressure centers affecting the Bootheel will lie across northern Missouri. This pattern generally results in heavier than normal precipitation over most of the state, but more nearly normal rainfall totals in the Bootheel. It doesn't eliminate the possibility of locally heavy downpours during thunderstorms.

A week-long wet spell about the middle of May accounted for the heavy accumulations that brought monthly totals well above normal at ESSA Weather Bureau agricultural stations. The following amounts were recorded:

Sikeston 9.32 inches, Malden 7.59 inches, Caruthersville 8.98 inches, Portageville 10.00 inches, Poplar Bluff 6.76 inches, Kennett 11.92 inches, Charleston 9.01 inches.

ESSA Weather Bureau rain gages at the University of Missouri experiment field caught 11.06 inches, and 12.79 inches fell at Cairo, Ill. Normal precipitation for the Bootheel as a whole during June is 3.94 inches. Normals for individual cities are:

Caruthersville 3.36 inches, Fisk 4.32 inches, New Madrid 3.99 inches, Poplar Bluff, 4.16 inches, Dexter 4.35 inches, Morehouse 4.19 inches, Parma 4.06 inches, Sikeston 4.16 inches.

Short term averages for other cities are:

Malden 3.16 inches, Portageville 3.76 inches, Kennett 3.80 inches, Charleston 3.86 inches.

Usually we can look for about 10 days with precipitation in June. Patterns indicated for this month may favor intermittent wet periods of several days duration rather than the one day with showers and thunderstorms that accompany rapid moving frontal systems. The five day outlook will give advance indication of the amount and duration of rainy weather as it develops.

Growing crops will benefit from ample rainfall and near normal temperatures in June. The wheat harvest will have to be worked in between wet spells, and farmers will want to watch forecasts closely to avoid delays in late bean planting behind wheat.

Where thrips become an economic problem, spraying schedules will also depend upon intervals of wet weather. This is also true in peach orchards once the spray program is initiated. Save yourself the expense of wasted spray materials by following the daily and five day weather outlooks.

Fishing and swimming will increase with warmer weather. Water sports should be avoided during electrical storms, and the club house is the best place to be on the golf course when thunderstorms develop. If your local radio station subscribes to the ESSA Weather Wire Service, check weather and forecasts for your favorite recreation spot before planning a day's outing.

If your specific weather - related problem is not answered by weather broadcasts, feel free to contact the ESSA Weather Bureau Agricultural Service Office at Portageville by mail or by telephone: DR 9-3731.

Education Committee will hear opponents of the controversial "shared time" bill that would permit handicapped pupils from private and parochial schools to attend special courses in public schools.

Sen. A. Basey Vanlandingham, D-Columbia, the chairman, said he would try to get the committee to act one way or the other.

The Senate Committee on Agriculture also meets Tuesday night to consider a House-passed bill to extend the food stamp plan on a statewide basis. A similar bill squeezed through the Senate after being defeated twice.

After today, both House and Senate are expected to spend most of their time acting on bills originating in the other house.

Still pending are many of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' major recommendations, including expansion of medicaid and a key welfare bill to let unemployed fathers live at home without impairing aid to their dependent children. It is stuck in the Senate Committee on Economics.

It has passed the House but the Senate committee took no action on it last week.

built. This program is not matched by any other state in the U. S. he said.

On a less optimistic note, Dr. Crider said that 76 counties in the state do not have local associations for the retarded. He urged more participation in the programs for the retarded by persons other than the parents of afflicted children.

Earl Mackey, Rep., Cape Girardeau, stated that the need to help the retarded will increase in the future.

He provided a glimpse of what lies ahead by giving a brief rundown of some of the pertinent legislature affecting mental retardation. The following bills have passed the House:

1. House Bill 388, now in the state senate will extend the amount of money to be used for the mentally exceptional and the physically exceptional.

2. House Bill 606 will extend mandatory school attendance to "trainable" mentally retarded, not only the "educable."

3. House Bill 727, now on the Senate calander, will permit insurance companies to allow policies held by parents of mentally retarded children or handicapped children to continue past age 18 in health and accident policies for as long as the child is under the protection of the parent.

4. House Bill 24, will provide shared time for mentally retarded children attending private schools.

5. Kindergarten Bill will provide state aid for kindergarten. Chances for passage of the bill are good, he said, and it will profit the educable retarded.

6. An appropriations bill also is pending which would provide money to buy more land and expand buildings and facilities for the training centers now being constructed, he said.

Mackey also listed some future possibilities for improving the overall programs for the retarded:

Setting up a legislative commission to survey the existing programs and to show what is needed next.

Appropriate money for field supervisory personnel.

Pass legislation to have a program for pre-school mentally retarded children throughout the state. Some counties have such programs, but a state effort is needed, he said.

Increase appropriations for grants to assure adequate training centers.

Set up sheltered homes, or half-way houses, which serve as residential centers used by the retarded persons when they work away from home at sheltered workshops.

Half-way houses would not constitute a complete break with their own home. They would stay at the residential centers during the week, and could stay at home on the weekends.

tion. The Arab High Command in Cairo said Iraqi planes had joined Syria and Jordan in raids on Israeli targets.

Cairo radio said Israeli planes were bombing Cairo and "other places." The Israeli government denied any Egyptian cities had been bombed. Heavy antiaircraft fire was heard from the outskirts of Cairo but no planes were seen over the center of the Egyptian capital.

The Israeli army reported heavy fighting in the Negev Desert of southern Israel, opposite the Gaza Strip and Sinai Desert where Egypt had massed 80,000 troops. The Israeli government radio's military correspondent reported Israeli forces were advancing and Egyptian guns had been silenced in an artillery battle.

A Jordanian government spokesman reported "a fierce battle" in Jerusalem. He said Jordanian artillery set off "huge fires on the Israeli side."

The U.S. Embassy in Tel Aviv warned all American citizens to leave on the first available commercial plane and started to burn its classified documents.

"There is no assurance that the U.S. government would be able to provide transport if the situation should suddenly deteriorate further," an embassy spokesman said.

Although the State Department had advised all Americans whose presence was not necessary to leave Israel, Egypt, Syria and Jordan, an estimated 6,000 U.S. citizens are believed still in Israel.

Power Failure Hits East Coast

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A giant power failure hit sections of the East Coast from New Jersey to Delaware at midmorning today. Electricity was restored in sections of Philadelphia an hour later.

The blackout hit Newark and Philadelphia and other cities in a populous area that was not affected by the great Northeastern blackout of November, 1965.

New York City and other areas hit by the 1965 blackout were not affected this time.

The Public Service Co. of New Jersey said the failure occurred in an interconnecting line tying together the power systems of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

The company said the specific trouble had not been located, and it could not say when service would be restored.

The utility said eight of its nine generating stations were knocked out.

Lights were out, radio stations off the air, telephones were disrupted, and state and city governments operated on emergency power.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

BY Jack Strass L.L.D.

THE CASE OF THE NUTTY BENEFICIARY

Selma and her husband George were spending a quiet night at home. Selma was quietly reading a newspaper and husband George was quitely sneaking up to her with a butcher's knife. Suffering from a split personality, he cleaved his wife in two.

Upon discovering Selma' body, the police also discovered that George was off his rocker. As a result, he was sent away for care and treatment. But the saga of Selma and George didn't end there. Later, George demanded payment under Selma's life insurance policy as sole beneficiary.

"Since she's dead," George told the insurance company, "I'm entitled to collect."

"If you were crazy when you killed her," answered an insurance company agent, "you're crazier now if you think we're going to pay you any money under that policy. After all, a man can't kill his wife and then collect her insurance."

George, however, thought he could and took his claim to court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you require the insurance company to fork over the money to George?"

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that a beneficiary is not precluded from receiving the proceeds of an insurance policy if he was insane at the time he killed the person insured.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: I suppose I should be happy my husband is not a slob, but I'm beginning to think the other extreme is just as bad. Here is a sample of what goes on in our house before we leave for an evening, and it is driving me crazy.

He says, "Do I look O.K.?" I say, "Yes. You look fine, dear." He says, "Is this tie right with this shirt?" I say, "Honey your tie is perfect." He says, "Are you sure my pants aren't too long?" I say, "No dear, your pants are just right." He says, "Did I get a good haircut this time or did the barber take too much off over the ears?" I say, "Your haircut is beautiful, dear."

Just as we get out the door he'll say, "Is this jacket right with these trousers or should I go back and put on my herringbone?" I say, "Your jacket is perfect, dear." When we get in the car he says, "Do you think I should have put on my brown shoes?" I say, "These shoes are fine, dear."

Then when I ask, "How do you think I look tonight?" he answers, "Why must you always fish for compliments? I'm getting awfully tired building you up."

What can I do with a guy like this? — M.J.

Dear M.J.: Nothing, so don't try. A man who is so unsure of himself is not going to give his wife much bolstering. So just continue to prop him up and feed his vanity because he sure does need it, Lady.

Dear Ann Landers: If you do not accomplish another thing in your life, the way you have put the spotlight on mental illness deserves a medal.

I was deeply moved by the letter from the young woman whose mother-in-law accused her of using her "nerves" as an excuse to avoid responsibility. I'm an older woman who must work to support myself. I am the victim of "nerves" or mental illness or I am just plain nuts, whatever anybody wants to call it.

My children think I am faking and feeling sorry for myself. They are tired of me, but they are not half as tired as I am of myself. At times I wish I could just die and get out of their way, but I keep hoping tomorrow will be better.

Mental illness is impossible to describe to a person who has good mental health. It's like trying to describe hell. It's unreal. It's a million miles from nowhere. It has no beginning and no end.

Please tell your readers who can live reasonably normal lives, free of horrible depressions and agonizing fears, that they should thank God for every day. They are truly blessed. — STILL FIGHTING

Dear Fighting: I have had dozens of letters today from people who share your problem. Your letter said it best, however. Chin up, and thank you for writing.

Confidential to Meant Well: If a vicious remark like that is your idea of "meaning well," what's your idea of a stab in the back? You sound like a woman who has an instinct for the jugular. You owe her an apology and if she accepts it consider yourself lucky.

How will you know when the real thing comes along? Ask Ann Landers. Send for her booklet, "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Heavy Fighting Erupts

JERUSALEM (AP)— For the third time in 20 years, war broke out today in the Middle East and gunfire sounded in Israel and in three of its Arab neighbors — Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

The Arabs, sworn to destroy Israel, were battling the Jewish state's forces on two fronts, at Egypt's Sinai frontier and on the Syria and Jordan borders.

Each side accused the other of lighting the fuse for the explosion which, as in 1956, threatened to involve the major powers.

The main fighting today appeared to be in the Sinai Desert, across the frontier that United Nations forces guarded until Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser ordered them out 18 days ago.

Artillery fire was heard in Jerusalem, the holy city divided between Jordan and Israel. Israel's port of Haifa was bombed. Israeli planes attacked the airports of three Arab capitals, Cairo, Amman and Damascus. Amman radio, the voice of King Hussein, reported heavy fighting along Jordan's 350-mile frontier with Israel.

Cairo said Israeli planes attacked Sharm El Sheikh, the point overlooking the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba — the area Nasser has blockaded to Israeli ships in the central controversy that brought on the fighting.

The Egyptian high command admitted that Israeli forces had penetrated into the Sinai desert on the southern front and into Khan Younes, in the middle of the Gaza Strip to the north.

"The enemy has struck our positions in these locations and has been repulsed," a military spokesman in Cairo said.

The attack in Sinai was on the road from the desert frontier to Ismailia, which lines about midway on the Suez Canal, the announcement said.

British Foreign Secretary George Brown announced in London that the fighting is spreading all around Israel, that Jerusalem is "engulfed in war," and that four British diplomatic missions were under attack by mobs in the Middle East.

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant told an emergency session of the Security Council in New York that Jordanian forces had taken over headquarters of the U.N. Truce Supervision Organization in Jerusalem. He sent an appeal to King Hussein of Jordan to order his troops withdrawn.

Thant told the council three Indian soldiers of the U.N. Emergency force were killed in the strafing of a convoy by Israeli planes. The War ministry in Brasilia reported a Brazilian corporal assigned to the force was killed by a bullet in the head as the fighting erupted.

The fighting came about after a series of minor clashes over the last few months across the Syrian-Israeli border, followed by Egypt's command May 17 for the United Nations to withdraw the U.N. Emergency Force that had separated Israel and Egypt on the Sinai frontier and at the Gaza Strip.

In Washington, the White House called on all parties to support the council, and said: "Tragic consequences still flow from this needless and destructive struggle if the fighting does not stop immediately."

Britain expressed grave concern and launched new discussions among the Big Four powers.

Israeli troops broke the three-hour Jordanian siege of the U.N. Truce Commission headquarters during the afternoon and restored control of the area to Lt. Gen. Odd Bull, the U.N. mission commander.

Mayor Teddy Kollek of Israeli Jerusalem announced the Jordanian troops had left the sector, a no-man's land astride the divided city.

The Arabs had moved up to surround the white building, once the home of the British high commissioner in the days of the mandate, while artillery and small arms fire was pumped into the Jewish sector around noon.

The fighting first erupted on the Sinai Desert front between Egyptian and Israeli troops and tanks, then spread to the Syrian and Jordanian fronts. Both sides accused the other of starting the war after weeks of crisis.

Egypt charged Cairo and other Egyptian targets were bombed. Damascus radio reported that Syrian air force planes bombed the oil refinery in Haifa and left it in flames. The broadcast said airfields in northern Israel were heavily damaged. Amman radio said Jordanian planes also took part in the Haifa raid.

Both sides claimed sweeping victories in the air battles, the biggest of which broke out over the Sinai Desert.

Cairo radio claimed 70 Israeli planes had been shot down.

An Israeli Arab - language broadcast claimed Israel had destroyed 150 Egyptian planes.

Damascus radio was even more sweeping, claiming all Israeli planes "vanished from the skies of the battle." The broadcast said three Israeli planes attempting to raid Syria were shot down. Amman radio said Jordanian planes also shot down three Israeli planes in an air battle.

All Arab broadcasts called on the armies to drive the Israelis into the sea.

"Attack, destroy and liberate Palestine," cried Cairo radio. "The forces of the Arab revolution will not pull back until the Zionists are completely obliterated from our Arab land," said Damascus radio.

"We are on the threshold of the final battle and we hope that God will grant us victory," King Hussein of Jordan said in a broadcast.

Gen. Moshe Dayan, Israel's victorious commander in the Sinai war with Egypt in 1956, declared to his army:

"Soldiers of Israel, we are not setting out for conquest. Our only aim is to frustrate the attempt of the Arab armies to conquer our country."

Dayan said the main task is "to sever and crush the right of blockades and aggression which have been created around us."

The first Israeli-Arab war came as the new state was proclaimed May 15, 1948. Israel was formed out of Palestine, long under British mandate rule. This war was ended in an armistice in 1949, broken in 1956 when Israel, backed by France and Britain, attacked Egypt. That fighting ceased under pressure from the United States and the Soviet Union.

Iraq has been moving troops into Syria and Egypt for more than a week, but there was no report they had gone into ac-

A YOUNG EXPERT at flycasting is Cecil Lee, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil L. Hammontree of East Prairie. He casts his line 50 feet with ease. The lad has been at it since he was three, shortly after Big Oak State Park Lake was opened to the public.

Big Ones Biting At Big Oak Lake

BY LEO SCHADE

BIG OAK STATE PARK - Now that school is out, many children are heading for Big Oak Lake, located on Missouri 102, 12 miles south of East Prairie.

Age is no barrier for fishing at this lake. Boys and girls three and four years old come to the lake and catch their share of fish.

The youngsters have their own fishing techniques. They find that if they throw a few bread crumbs into the water, a number of small fish will swim around the bait. In a short time a child will have four to six inch fish on his line.

Every child is proud of his first catch, no matter how small.

It doesn't end with the small fry here at the lake. If one is proficient at flycasting he will latch onto the large ones.

One lad, Cecil Lee Hammontree, 6, is a veteran at casting and has been at it since he was three. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hammontree Sr., of East Prairie. The entire Hammontree family visits the lake regularly.

The big fish--bass and catfish--are found in the deeper part of the lake. By taking out a boat to the eight and 20-foot depth, a fisherman can catch bass weighing six to seven pounds. Under the deep seaweed, catfish weighing up to 10 pounds have been caught, Cletus Johnson, park superintendent, noted.

The large catfish are found lying under the heavy moss.

The lake and park are growing in popularity each year. On Memorial Day 1,700 persons came to spend the day at the park.

In the first years of operation the lake had trouble holding water because of the many beaver which inhabit the bar pit surrounding the 25-acre lake. However, at present, they are not damaging the lake.

The adding of a large new well keeps the lake at a given level with fresh water, but one obstacle still remains. The marauding muskrats, which dig into the bank at the water level.

The only way to stop the problem is to lower the water level six to 10 inches.

The park with its mammoth oak trees by the hundreds, the largest to be found in Missouri, together with the large picnic and camping grounds, continue to draw visitors from surrounding states by the thousands each year.

Review Improvements for Mentally Retarded in State

State plans for improving the lot of mentally retarded were reviewed Sunday afternoon at the annual regional meeting of the 9th District Association for Mentally Retarded at the community room of Security National Bank.

Joe Weber, Dexter, was re-elected by acclamation as the group's regional vice president. He explained at the outset that the group would not transact any business, but could make recommendations at the State Board, which in turn makes recommendations at the state convention through the state associations.

Units represented at the meeting included the associations for retarded children from Sikeston, Dexter, Cape Girardeau and Charleston.

Dr. Russell Crider, president of the state association for retarded children, explained that the overall purpose of the state organization is to help "all" mentally retarded children.

Dr. Crider served as a local unit president of St. Charles county for several years before he became state president. He reviewed some of the early problems faced by organization for the retarded:

Evaluation of the child to determine if he was retarded was one of the most common problems of the early associations, he said.

The present efforts grew from school and a pre-school program organized in St. Louis through the efforts of interested persons in a school donated by the St. Louis School system.

The state then took over the training of those children who were educable, he continued.

Dr. Crider pointed out that it is now mandatory that all children in a school district in Missouri attend school until age 21. Slow learners must now be provided for by local school district.

A mandatory state training program is now administered through state direction at Jefferson City, he noted.

The object is to get the child out of the home and into the schools to teach him to the limits of his capabilities, Dr. Crider said.

Providing for the retarded person who is unable to work in competition after schooling referred to as custodial care still needs a lot of development, he continued.

The problem of what to do with the child after schooling has been answered partially by the sheltered workshop programs, he continued.

Under the provisions of the extended sheltered workshop bill passed by the state legislature, some persons eventually can go out into competitive industry. Others remain in the workshop, where they perform manual tasks making useful items for government and private industry contracts.

One such workshop in Cape Girardeau makes coils for radios and televisions. Sheltered workshops are subsidized by the state.

Dr. Crider noted that the problems of the mentally retarded are never ending. Only a cooperative program and unified effort by interested persons can accomplish meaningful results, he said.

Complimenting the state legislators, Dr. Crider noted that they are well versed in the problems of the retarded and could be proud of the nine regional diagnositic centers now being

Judge Sentences Speck to Death in Electric Chair

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Richard Speck, 25, was sentenced today to die in the electric chair Sept. 1 for murdering eight young nurses in their Chicago dormitory last year.

In pronouncing sentence, Judge Herbert C. Paschen of Circuit Court carried out the recommendation of the jury that convicted Speck on April 15. The jury recommended death but the judge was not bound to impose the maximum penalty.

The sentencing put in motion what is expected to be a series of drawn-out appeals.

An appeal to a higher court is automatic in cases involving capital punishment and the procedures for making such appeals nearly always take a great deal of time.

For example, there are eight condemned men in the Cook County jail. Through various avenues of appeal they have managed to avoid execution for two to 13 years.

Speck's lawyer, Gerald W. Getty, said he would fight a death sentence "through all the courts in the land."

Speck was found guilty of rounding up nine young nurses in their dormitory at night and slaying eight of them, either stabbing or strangling.

The ninth nurse, Corazon Amurao, 23, a Philippine exchange student, escaped by hiding under a bed.

She was the state's principal witness at Speck's trial and pointed him out as the killer.

Speck, a 25-year-old drifter, was transported from the Cook County Jail to the Peoria County jail Sunday under heavy guard. Speck was tried in Peoria after Getty contended he could not get a fair trial in Chicago.

In the latest of a series of moves in Speck's behalf, Getty brought a psychiatrist to a hearing Friday. The psychiatrist testified that Speck had a serious mental disease and could not control his behavior at times of high tension.

But the prosecution pointed out that five psychiatrists and a general doctor had agreed last fall that Speck was mentally competent.

Time Is Running out for Passing Legislative Bills

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — With only four weeks of the session left, today was the last day for the Missouri Senate to debate its own bills.

The House has set no such deadline but the time factor will take care of that.

As floor work steps up and committee action slacks off, hundreds of bills are doomed to die from neglect.

The top bill on the Senate calendar today was one to legalize abortion if two doctors certify it is necessary for the health of the mother or child.

The conference committee on the main appropriation bills continued its work and Sen. J.F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, the Senate chairman, said the committee has a good chance to finish this week. That would put the bills in position for passage next week.

Two important school bills come up before the House Education Committee tonight.

One would increase state aid to junior colleges and the other would provide state aid for kindergarten pupils. Both have passed the Senate.

Funds Granted For Center At Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD - The Federal Housing Authority at Bloomfield has released $115,000 to the Crowley Ridge Recreational Center Club for development of the center to be built near the Bloomfield city park.

Upon completion, the center will have a nine-hole golf course, a swimming pool and a clubhouse.

An additional $28,000 will be required to complete the costs of the center, Cecil Thorn, manager of the Bloomfield FHA office, said. The additional money was needed, because of the rising costs since the project was started two years ago. More land will also have to be cleared than was first anticipated.

The golf course and irrigation system contract has been awarded to Houston Clark of Bloomfield at a low bid of $56,874. Construction will begin this week, Thorn said.

The 30 by 70 foot swimming pool will have to be cut to meet the present planned budget, he added.

Membership dues have been paid by 140 persons as of last week, and 155 membership dues must be paid before other contracts can be released.

Heavy Fighting Erupts

JERUSALEM (AP)— For the third time in 20 years, war broke out today in the Middle East and gunfire sounded in Israel and in three of its Arab neighbors — Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

The Arabs, sworn to destroy Israel, were battling the Jewish state's forces on two fronts, at Egypt's Sinai frontier and on the Syria and Jordan borders.

Each side accused the other of lighting the fuse for the explosion which, as in 1956, threatened to involve the major powers.

The main fighting today appeared to be in the Sinai Desert, across the frontier that United Nations forces guarded until Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser ordered them out 18 days ago.

Artillery fire was heard in Jerusalem, the holy city divided between Jordan and Israel. Israel's port of Haifa was bombed. Israeli planes attacked the airports of three Arab capitals, Cairo, Amman and Damascus. Amman radio, the voice of King Hussein, reported heavy fighting along Jordan's 350-mile frontier with Israel.

Cairo said Israeli planes attacked Sharm El Sheikh, the point overlooking the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba — the area Nasser has blockaded to Israeli ships in the central controversy that brought on the fighting.

The Egyptian high command admitted that Israeli forces had penetrated into the Sinai desert on the southern front and into Khan Younes, in the middle of the Gaza Strip to the north.

"The enemy has struck our positions in these locations and has been repulsed," a military spokesman in Cairo said.

The attack in Sinai was on the road from the desert frontier to Ismailia, which lines about midway on the Suez Canal, the announcement said.

British Foreign Secretary George Brown announced in London that the fighting is spreading all around Israel, that Jerusalem is "engulfed in war," and that four British diplomatic missions were under attack by mobs in the Middle East.

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant told an emergency session of the Security Council in New York that Jordanian forces had taken over headquarters of the U.N. Truce Supervision Organization in Jerusalem. He sent an appeal to King Hussein of Jordan to order his troops withdrawn.

Thant told the council three Indian soldiers of the U.N. Emergency force were killed in the strafing of a convoy by Israeli planes. The War ministry in Brasilia reported a Brazilian corporal assigned to the force was killed by a bullet in the head as the fighting erupted.

The fighting came about after a series of minor clashes over the last few months across the Syrian-Israeli border, followed by Egypt's command May 17 for the United Nations to withdraw the U.N. Emergency Force that had separated Israel and Egypt on the Sinai frontier and at the Gaza Strip.

In Washington, the White House called on all parties to support the council, and said: "Tragic consequences still flow from this needless and destructive struggle if the fighting does not stop immediately."

Britain expressed grave concern and launched new discussions among the Big Four powers.

Israeli troops broke the three-hour Jordanian siege of the U.N. Truce Commission headquarters during the afternoon and restored control of the area to Lt. Gen. Odd Bull, the U.N. mission commander.

Mayor Teddy Kollek of Israeli Jerusalem announced the Jordanian troops had left the sector, a no-man's land astride the divided city.

The Arabs had moved up to surround the white building, once the home of the British high commissioner in the days of the mandate, while artillery and small arms fire was pumped into the Jewish sector around noon.

The fighting first erupted on the Sinai Desert front between Egyptian and Israeli troops and tanks, then spread to the Syrian and Jordanian fronts. Both sides accused the other of starting the war after weeks of crisis.

Egypt charged Cairo and other Egyptian targets were bombed. Damascus radio reported that Syrian air force planes bombed the oil refinery in Haifa and left it in flames. The broadcast said airfields in northern Israel were heavily damaged. Amman radio said Jordanian planes also took part in the Haifa raid.

Both sides claimed sweeping victories in the air battles, the biggest of which broke out over the Sinai Desert.

Cairo radio claimed 70 Israeli planes had been shot down.

An Israeli Arab - language broadcast claimed Israel had destroyed 150 Egyptian planes.

Damascus radio was even more sweeping, claiming all Israeli planes "vanished from the skies of the battle." The broadcast said three Israeli planes attempting to raid Syria were shot down. Amman radio said Jordanian planes also shot down three Israeli planes in an air battle.

All Arab broadcasts called on the armies to drive the Israelis into the sea.

"Attack, destroy and liberate Palestine," cried Cairo radio.

"The forces of the Arab revolution will not pull back until the Zionists are completely obliterated from our Arab land," said Damascus radio.

"We are on the threshold of the final battle and we hope that God will grant us victory," King Hussein of Jordan said in a broadcast.

Gen. Moshe Dayan, Israel's victorious commander in the Sinai war with Egypt in 1956, declared to his army:

"Soldiers of Israel, we are not setting out for conquest. Our only aim is to frustrate the attempt of the Arab armies to conquer our country."

Dayan said the main task is "to sever and crush the right of blockades and aggression which have been created around us."

The first Israeli-Arab war came as the new state was proclaimed May 15, 1948. Israel was formed out of Palestine, long under British mandate rule. This war was ended in an armistice in 1949, broken in 1956 when Israel, backed by France and Britain, attacked Egypt. That fighting ceased under pressure from the United States and the Soviet Union.

Iraq has been moving troops into Syria and Egypt for more than a week, but there was no report they had gone into ac-

Big Ones Biting At Big Oak Lake

BY LEO SCHADE

BIG OAK STATE PARK - Now that school is out, many children are heading for Big Oak Lake, located on Missouri 102, 12 miles south of East Prairie.

Age is no barrier for fishing at this lake. Boys and girls three and four years old come to the lake and catch their share of fish.

The youngsters have their own fishing techniques. They find that if they throw a few bread crumbs into the water, a number of small fish will swim around the bait. In a short time a child will have four to six inch fish on his line.

Every child is proud of his first catch, no matter how small.

It doesn't end with the small fry here at the lake. If one is proficient at flycasting he will latch onto the large ones.

One lad, Cecil Lee Hammontree, 6, is a veteran at casting and has been at it since he was three. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hammontree Sr., of East Prairie. The entire Hammontree family visits the lake regularly.

The big fish--bass and catfish--are found in the deeper part of the lake. By taking out a boat to the eight and 20-foot depth, a fisherman can catch bass weighing six to seven pounds. Under the deep seaweed, catfish weighing up to 10 pounds have been caught, Cletus Johnson, park superintendent, noted.

The large catfish are found lying under the heavy moss.

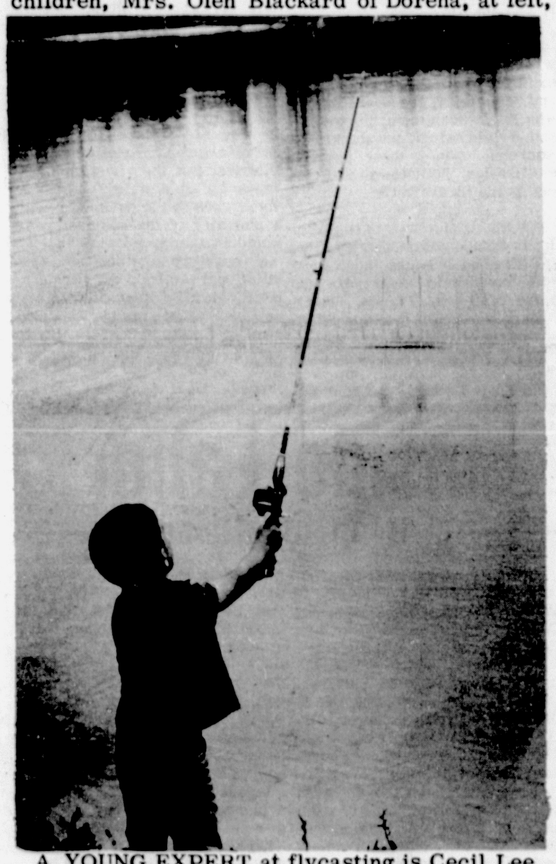
The lake and park are growing in popularity each year. On Memorial Day 1,700 persons came to spend the day at the park.

In the first years of operation the lake had trouble holding water because of the many beaver which inhabit the bar pit surrounding the 25-acre lake. However, at present, they are not damaging the lake.

The adding of a large new well keeps the lake at a given level with fresh water, but one obstacle still remains. The marauding muskrats, which dig into the bank at the water level.

The only way to stop the problem is to lower the water level six to 10 inches.

The park with its mammoth oak trees by the hundreds, the largest to be found in Missouri, together with the large picnic and camping grounds, continue to draw visitors from surrounding states by the thousands each year.



A YOUNG EXPERT at flycasting is Cecil Lee, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil L. Hammontree of East Prairie. He casts his line 50 feet with ease. The lad has been at it since he was three, shortly after Big Oak State Park Lake was opened to the public.

MANY OLDER FISHERMEN would be envious of this catch. Cecil Lee Hammontree, 6, of East Prairie displays six nice-sized perch which he caught while fly-fishing at Big Oak State Park Lake in Mississippi county.

Review Improvements for Mentally Retarded in State

State plans for improving the lot of mentally retarded were reviewed Sunday afternoon at the annual regional meeting of the 9th District Association for Mentally Retarded at the community room of Security National Bank.

Joe Weber, Dexter, was re-elected by acclamation as the group's regional vice president. He explained at the outset that the group would not transact any business, but could make recommendations at the State Board, which in turn makes recommendations at the state convention through the state associations.

Units represented at the meeting included the associations for retarded children from Sikeston, Dexter, Cape Girardeau and Charleston.

Dr. Russell Crider, president of the state association for retarded children, explained that the overall purpose of the state organization is to help "all" mentally retarded children.

Dr. Crider served as a local unit president of St. Charles county for several years before he became state president. He reviewed some of the early problems faced by organization for the retarded:

Evaluation of the child to determine if he was retarded was one of the most common problems of the early associations, he said.

The present efforts grew from school and a pre-school program organized in St. Louis through the efforts of interested persons in a school donated by the St. Louis School system.

The state then took over the training of those children who were educable, he continued.

Dr. Crider pointed out that it is now mandatory that all children in a school district in Missouri attend school until age 21. Slow learners must now be provided for by local school district.

A mandatory state training program is now administered through state direction at Jefferson City, he noted.

The object is to get the child out of the home and into the schools to teach him to the limits of his capabilities, Dr. Crider said.

Providing for the retarded person who is unable to work in competition after schooling referred to as custodial care - still needs a lot of development, he continued.

The problem of what to do with the child after schooling has been answered partially by the sheltered workshop programs, he continued.

Under the provisions of the extended sheltered workshop bill passed by the state legislature, some persons eventually can go out into competitive industry. Others remain in the workshop, where they perform manual tasks making useful items for government and private industry contracts.

One such workshop in Cape Girardeau makes coils for radios and televisions. Sheltered workshops are subsidized by the state.

Dr. Crider noted that the problems of the mentally retarded are never ending. Only a cooperative program and unified effort by interested persons can accomplish meaningful results, he said.

Complimenting the state legislators, Dr. Crider noted that they are well versed in the problems of the retarded and could be proud of the nine regional diagnositic centers now being

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Some of the emphasis placed on making the post office pay its way are ridiculous but some of the fringe benefits of the effort are good.

For many years newspapers, magazines, books and other materials have gone through the mails at a subsidized rate. It is true that a subsidy cannot be justified to the extent that it could when the printed word was the only means of communication but it is still desirable and necessary.

Newspapers and magazines pay much more of their share of postage costs than they did even a few years ago. The public still benefits from the comparatively low postage rates.

If rural free delivery patrons ever were compelled to pay their fair share of the costs of mail brought to their boxes they would be forced to expend far more than city dwellers for postal service.

Farmers would really raise the roof in protesting any such effort. The present system shouldn't be abandoned. It's a worthwhile universal service. Costs are secondary.

But the post office's recent concern with showing a profit has produced other benefits.

Competition and cost consciousness has accomplished what years of effort by private enterprise interests has failed to do.

The post office has decided that it really doesn't want to pay high interest rates and to compete with banks and savings and loan institutions.

It has ceased issuing postal savings certificates - a victim of the government's own tight money policies.

Business declined. This impressed Congress.

So bankers accomplished rapidly what they had been seeking in vain for a half century to accomplish.

Similarily printers have tried without success to persuade the post office to cease selling printed envelopes.

Although the post office still sells them profit consciousness of the post office department has caused the rate to be raised so that the nation's taxpayers no longer heavily subsidize the printing presses.

It is much easier now for printers to compete with the federal government. They offer faster service, more flexibility in ink colors, size, paper quality and color and permit advertising messages.

Price differences are no longer as sharp as they once were.

If the post office department always had been as conscious of profits as it is today it never would have sold either postal savings or printed envelopes.

THE LONG ARRANGEMENT

U.S. Senator Edward V. Long has announced he intends to determine if the Internal Revenue Service leaked information to Life magazine concerning legal fees he is receiving from St. Louis attorney Morris Shenker.

We can certainly understand why Senator Long would be upset over any IRS disclosure, although we suspect that IRS is innocent of the good Senator's charges. When more than one person knows something, it no longer is a secret, and Shenker's associates in St. Louis and behind prison bars are perhaps not always as discreet as they should be.

Senator Long still denies any conflict of interest in his legal association with the Shenker law firm which in recent years has paid him each year approximately what the Governor of Missouri receives in salary.

Missouri's junior Senator may be telling the truth when he denies that any of his legal association with Shenker involves federal agencies. Yet Shenker's own law firm, as distinguished from Long's own law firm, deals very directly with federal agencies in Washington. And when an attorney has a U.S. Senator on his payroll, it is much easier to deal with federal agencies. Thus the fee arrangement, as far as Shenker was concerned, was of material benefit. The fee arrangement, as far as Long was concerned, was also of material benefit, in the amount of $24,000 a year material benefit.

The only persons who haven't benefitted from the arrangement are the citizens of Missouri.

We expect they will make other and more satisfactory arrangements when Senator Long comes around for another six-year "retainer" in next year's election. - Daily Dunklin Democrat

Life and death were just 15 hours apart for a Texas motorist whose car slammed into the supports for a big freeway exit sign when he was forced off the road in a blinding rainstorm.

A year earlier, another driver had demolished his car against the same sign's rigid supports and died of his injuries.

This driver was luckier. Just 15 hours before, a highway department crew had installed new breakaway supports for the sign. The driver and his passengers were not hurt, and his car sustained only $500 in damages.

It was the first "live" test for the new signs, which are designed to crack in the middle and give way when struck by a moving vehicle.

Last year, the signs were tested extensively in collisions with driverless cars. Crashes were recorded by high-speed cameras, and research teams studied the films to assess dynamics of various sign structures during collision.

The basic features of the breakaway sign support are a slip joint at its base and a break plate at the bottom of the sign face. The slip joint allows the sign post to slip free of its foundation on impact. The cast-iron plate cracks the post when it is hit, creating a hinge effect that allows the crashing auto to pass under the collapsing structure safely.

Although more research on the break-away sign is underway, the current model is being installed in various parts of the state to field test the basic design.

"We think we've arrived at a workable sign, one that will save lives, but don't consider the current model the ultimate," reports D.C. Greer, Texas state highway engineer.

The signs were developed in a joint research project by the Texas Highway Department and the Texas Transportation Institute of Texas A&M University, in cooperation with the Bureau of Public Roads.

RIESEL BEATS COUNTRY ON REUTHER POLITICAL ACTION STORY

What Walter Reuther does is always national news - off as well as on the auto front. For years he has funneled millions of dollars into political action in cooperation with labor's highly efficient and sometimes automated political action committee.

Recently his auto union cut off its contributions to this political committee. This went unnoticed until the story - which will have impact on the 1967 and especially the 1968 elections - was dug up by our columnist Victor Riesel.

Riesel filed the story on May 24.

A week later, on May 30, this story was corroborated, virtually word for word, by the union and it made wire service stories and headlines across the country.

As always, when Riesel is not atop the news he is well ahead of it.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The Chinese have an ingenious way of collecting bad debts. The creditor and his family simply move into the debtor's home. Rather than live with his uninvited guests, the debtor usually pays up.

Having children won't necessarily save a foundering marriage. Psychologists say that, in some cases, children increase rather than diminish the tension between wife and husband.

The postwar Japanese are growing up taller and heavier. Better farming methods have enabled them to raise their average daily intake of calories in the past 10 years from 2,162 to 2,353.

The chances are one in 80 that you will need a blood transfusion sometime in the next 12 months. American hospitals now use between five million and six million pints of blood a year.

Yep, you really require sleep to function at your best. Tests show that the more sleep you miss the more errors you make, and people deprived of sleep too long become hallucinated and terror-stricken.

How they started: Folksinger Theodore Bikel sought to be a lawyer. Buddy Hackett, the comedian, studied to be dramatic actor. James Cagney, famed for his tough gangster portrayals, danced in the chorus of musical comedies.

Quotable notables: "We have been god-like in our planned breeding of our domesticated plants and animals, but we have been rabbit-like in our unplanned breeding of ourselves." — historian Arnold Toynbee.

Alcohol is one of man's oldest problems. An Egyptian writer 3,000 years ago wrote this warning against drinking a big jug of beer: "Thou speakest and an unintelligible utterance issueth from thy mouth. If you fallest down and thy limbs break, there is none to hold out a hand to thee. Thy companions in drink stand up and say: 'Away with this sot.' And thou are like a little child."

Cleopatra never used a bar of soap in her life. Slaves anointed her body with oil, then hand-rubbed the dirt off.

Folklore: If you put a louse on a baby's head before he is nine days old and then carry him up to the attic, he will have lofty thoughts later in life. An itching left eye is a sign of woe to come. Handing an open penknife to a friend will result in a quarrel. If you iron the tail of your husband's shirt, lady, it will make him harsh.

No one really knows what Jesus Christ looked like, whether he was short or tall, handsome or homely, fair or dark. Historians feel sure he was bearded, however, for all Jewish men wore beards at the time he lived.

It was Charles Spurgeon who observed, "It is not how much we have, but how much we enjoy, that makes happiness."

BIG BROTHER AT WORK

"The federal government's munificence towards all the people in supplying all their electrical needs, present and projected, is the poetized subject of a colored film produced and paid for by the federal government."

So reports the magazine Electrical World. The film in question is entitled "Power for the Nation" and runs for 28 minutes. It is a professional job, which makes the most of the attractions of film media. And it is clearly designed to make the viewer believe that the federal government is and should be a Great White Father in bringing the blessings of electric power to the consumers of this nation.

It is true that the investor-owned utilities are mentioned. But it is a passing mention. The viewer of the film who had no other sources of information would never know that these utilities serve some 79 per cent of electric users, that they have been primarily responsible for technological advances that have assured us the most dependable and abundant power supply in the world at an extremely modest cost, and that they are a major taxpayer to every unit of government from the hamlet to the federal treasury.

The stress of the film is on the federal dams and nothing is spared to maximize their virtues -- not only in power production, but in navigation, recreation, irrigation and so on. Even Passamaquoddy comes into the picture - though Congress has not authorized it, and experts regard it as being as dubious a venture now as when it was first proposed.

Thus is the taxpayer's money being splurged on an expensive film to promote old world socialism instead of building confidence and pride in the achievements of United States free enterprise. Thus does Big Brother work.

VIET RAT HOLES NOW PLUGGED?

President Johnson, referring to those who are calling for the United States to halt its bombing of North Viet Nam, said the other day that "I don't quite understand why you want me to have our Marines and airmen pause and put their hands behind their backs while the other people don't pause and continue to shoot at them."

Most Americans will share the President's inability to understand this reasoning. But something they will find even more difficult to understand is why this country has supplied, and apparently still is supplying, the enemy with much of the wherewithal he needs to continue shooting at our soldiers, Marines and airmen.

According to the House Government Operations Committee, cling testimony taken last May from the deputy director of the Agency for International Development (AID) mission to Saigon, "at least 60 per cent of the aid is diverted from the purpose for which it is intended."

In the fiscal year ending in June, a total of $728 million in economic aid, including $420 million in consumer goods, was pumped into South Viet Nam. This is exclusive of military aid, and exclusive of what 300,000 GIs are spending on their own.

Large amounts of AID shipments have been diverted to the Viet Cong, says the committee. Some of it has found its way to Cambodia, Thailand and Communist China.

Not quite as bad, but bad enough, is that all this aid has flooded a South Vietnamese economy too small to absorb it, contributing to graft, corruption and black marketing.

A nine-month investigation is summed up in the committee's 125-page report with a charge of "unconscionable mismanagement" and "general abdication of responsibility" on the part of the Departments of State and Defense, the General Accounting Office, the U.S. Information Agency and, particularly, AID.

The committee acknowledges that "many effective steps" have been taken, before and since the investigation, to plug the leaks and correct the abuses in the aid program.

What the taxpaying public would like to know is, have ALL the necessary steps been taken, and if not, why not? And why was such a situation allowed to develop in the first place?

It may be some comfort to know that the United States is rich enough to finance both its own troops and the enemy's, make contributions to the economies of three other nations and create black market millionaires on the side without seriously straining itself. But it is a strange way to run a war.

Maybe we should start bombing our own supply lines.

BEST FOR SMALL STATES

Recently in Washington, D.C., I was surprised to find some Congressmen from small states in favor of abolishing the Electoral College and providing for election of the President and Vice President by direct vote. Such a plan would penalize their own states.

The Electoral College system was one of the fundamental tenets used by the Founders of Freedom in making the United States a Republic. A bonus voting power in the Electoral College was provided the small states to induce them to join in forming the Republic. This was accomplished by giving each state, no matter how small, two electors at large plus one elector for each Congressional District.

Today four of the small states, Alaska, Nevada, Wyoming and Vermont, have a combined population of 1,230,000 and 12 electoral votes, giving the people of these states one presidential elector per 100,000 population. The people of New York and California, by contrast, have a voting power of one electoral vote for about 391,608 population.

The bonus voting power will be retained under the Congressional District Plan for reforming the Electroal College. Under this plan, every state would continue to have two electors at large and one for each Congressional District. But the system under which all of a state's electoral votes goes to the candidate with a plurality of the popular vote would be abandoned.

Several resolutions for a constitutional amendment to change the Electoral College system are now before Congress. Good citizens owe it to their country to seek publicity for or against them so the people may be informed. HLH.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Rep. Manny Celler, distinguished and much-loved elder statesman from Brooklyn, has promised to pass a crime institute bill for research into crime, but he seems just a bit skittish about J. Edgar Hoover and another Brooklyn congressman, John Rooney. Celler is shying away from putting any authorization for crime research into the new anti-crime bill proposed by President Johnson.

The latter bill will pass fairly soon, though not under the original name -- the "safe streets" bill. Republicans didn't like this title because privately they plan to use safe streets as a campaign issue against Johnson in 1968. The legislation has been tagged "the national crime bill."

Meanwhile, Rep. James Scheuer, a New York Democrat who comes from the Bronx, not Brooklyn, worked out a comprehensive plan for research into the causes of crime, how to get more community support for the police, and cures for crime. Scheuer proposed a new assistant attorney general in the justice department to handle this.

However, J. Edgar Hoover objected. Over the years Hoover has always protested when anyone in the justice department wanted to backstop the FBI. This was the basic reason for the long-standing feud between Hoover and Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy.

Rep. Scheuer tried to sell his idea to Attorney General Ramsey Clark, who liked it but stated frankly that he could not take on J. Edgar Hoover. Hoover has now received his third dispensation to serve beyond the statutory retirement age of 70. He is now 73. Ramsey, a young man coming up in the government, shied away from any showdown.

Also opposing the idea of any research into crime is crusty, cantankerous John Rooney, the Brooklyn congressman who rides herd on justice department appropriations. If he won't vote the money for research into the cause and cure of crime, the money isn't going to be voted.

Republicans, however, are not so easily intimidated. Robert McClory, Republic of Illinois, has now introduced Scheuer's bill in the judiciary committee and proposes to push it whether J. Edgar Hoover or John Rooney like it or not.

FLORIDA GIVEAWAY

An innocuous looking bill, so technical most senators won't pay much attention to it, comes up in the senate commerce committee tomorrow (June 6). Actually it will drive a hole bigger than a 10-ton truck through the federal power commission, the agency entrusted with protecting the public from being gouged by the big gas, oil and power companies.

The bill is the pet of two Florida senators, white - haired Spessard Holland and handsome George Smathers. It would give the Florida power and light company special exemption from the federal power commission on the ground that it is not in interstate commerce.

The commission, after lengthy hearings, recently held that Florida power and light did operate in interstate commerce. So what the two senators have done is to introduce a bill which, if passed, would overrule the power commission. In effect, it's a private bill aimed at giving special privilege to the ninth largest utility in the nation.

Last year a clumsily drawn bill aimed at the same exemption was narrowly defeated in the senate commerce committee 9 to 8, with all Republicans plus Republicrat Frank Lausche of Ohio and Howard Cannon, Democrat of Las Vegas, Nev., voting for the big utility. The Republicans supporting the private bonanza for the Florida utility included Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Norris Cotton of New Hampshire, whose states are big power consumers; also Thruston Morton, Ky., Winston Prouty, Vt., and Bob Griffin, Mich.

This time Florida power and light was smarter. It hired astute Mike Feldman, former counsel to President Kennedy, and he has done a much better job of drafting the bill.

UNIQUE RECORD

However, Florida power and light comes before the senate with a highly interesting record. In the first place a utility consultant hired by Miami estimates it overcharged its customers by millions of dollars while operating under the complacent Florida Public Service Commission.

Second, it was Benjamin Fugua, vice president of Florida power, who lobbied with the late Richard Mack, a federal communications commissioner later indicted in the case, regarding Miami's scandal-ridden channel 10. McGregor Smith, Chairman of Florida power and light, and Fugua also intervened with commissioner Mack regarding another TV application.

While Florida power wants to undercut the FPC, both President Kennedy and President Johnson have built it up. Kennedy appointed tough Joe Swidler as chairman, while Johnson has appointed Lee White to replace him. Meanwhile, Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., staunch friend of the consumer, is repairing an administration bill which not only would block the Holland-Smathers giveaway but intermingle interstate power so as to prevent blackouts similar to that which paralyzed New York Nov. 9, 1965.

PROFILES IN TERROR

Ten Confidential FBI Reports to Hoover Reveal Vast Powers of Cosa Nostra's Own Supreme Court.

Providence, R.I.: -- For the first time an hour by hour, kaledioscopic view of daily life in the Mafia -- plotting, terror, disciplining of recalcitrant sons, developing of enterprising shakedowns and businesses, manipulating of some local unions and even a method of getting a favor from an official, now a famed U.S. Senator, is available in a most authoritative sheaf of documents.

As though these papers were the script for an episodic mod movie, they disclose threats by the alledged Cosa Nostra chief to declare martial law in Boston; his directive to a young tough to telephone his mother twice a week and an ingenious plan to shake down 400 doctors.

All this and a bloody lot more are in a set of 10 raw reports dispatched to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover by his Special Agent In Charge of the bureau's Boston headquarters.

These reports are in the Federal Court docket here because they were subpoenaed some time ago by the defense in an Internal Revenue Case. In them are a score of stories -- not the least of which is the alledged Mafia boss' opinion that Joe Bonanno had himself kidnapped to deceive the national crime syndicate's ruling "Commission."

But far more important, it seems to me, than the interwoven series of vignettes is the ceaseless activity of the Cosa Nostra: its reaching into such areas as Maine which experts long had thought clean of the Mafia; its high courts and supreme power over every hour -- waking or sleeping -- of its bosses, dons, and troops.

After analyzing and reanalyzing these documents, it is certain that the Mafia is as all-pervading in vast sections of New England, from the Connecticut border up to Maine, as it is in New York, sections of New Jersey, parts of Florida; areas of Louisiana, up and down the Mississippi River, and Chicago.

A Connecticut union official, for example, is described as "hiring only union members with criminal records." And there is the thug who wants to get himself on another local union's pension roster.

Another report, obviously based on wiretapping or some form of electronic wizardry, records the plaint of a tough supplicant to the alleged boss who himself is a Commission member. The appellant tells the chief that he wants his son to telephone the mother at least twice a week and send her $10 regularly because she is not well. The boss rules that the boy must call his mother twice a week, send the $10 and visit the elderly lady at least once every two weeks.

At another time there is recorded the talk of a hood and the alleged Cosa Nostra czar about a scheme to force two medical groups in New York to merge. There are 400 in all and at $100 a piece each for initiation fees, it sounds like a good thing.

"Doctors scare easily," says the schemer, according to these court records. The FBI report states that when the Mafia man "met one of the doctors, he (the doctor) 'knew who we were and what it was all about'." The FBI reports this as an effort to shake down the doctors and quotes the Cosa Nostra operative as saying, "we'll get in there somehow."

The power of the national Mafia Commission to reach into labor, business and the professions is vast because the Cosa Nostra operations are vast. The Justice Dept.'s Criminal Division has amassed 300,000 index cards reflecting the movements of more than 3,000 syndicate "principals."

Despite all the talk of an anti-crime crusade, the 3,000 figure is an increase of 600 principals during the past fiscal year.

Yet the entire Criminal Division, of which the Organized Crime and Racketeering section is but part, has asked only for $3,777,500 for the 1968 fiscal year. This is just an increase of $176,800 over 1967. Why so little?

Why have only eight new attorneys been sought for the fight against the kind of organized crime outlined in the FBI documents?

Why does the labor rackets unit, which fights as much to preserve clean unions and safeguard small businesses as fights the looting, now have only five lawyers? It would take that many just to do a good job on the new probe into some New England locals.

Why are there a large "number of areas" according to the Justice Dept., covered by a single Criminal Division lawyer, when each district should have its own?

Doesn't anyone on the Congressional Appropriations Committee read the reports? They're up here for the asking.

Or is no one very much interested in asking?

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Some of the emphasis placed on making the post office pay its way are ridiculous but some of the fringe benefits of the effort are good.

For many years newspapers, magazines, books and other materials have gone through the mails at a subsidized rate. It is true that a subsidy cannot be justified to the extent that it could when the printed word was the only means of communication but it is still desirable and necessary.

Newspapers and magazines pay much more of their share of postage costs than they did even a few years ago. The public still benefits from the comparatively low postage rates.

If rural free delivery patrons ever were compelled to pay their fair share of the costs of mail brought to their boxes they would be forced to expend far more than city dwellers for postal service.

Farmers would really raise the roof in protesting any such effort. The present system shouldn't be abandoned. It's a worthwhile universal service. Costs are secondary.

But the post office's recent concern with showing a profit has produced other benefits.

Competition and cost consciousness has accomplished what years of effort by private enterprise interests has failed to do.

The post office has decided that it really doesn't want to pay high interest rates and to compete with banks and savings and loan institutions.

It has ceased issuing postal savings certificates - a victim of the government's own tight money policies.

Business declined. This impressed Congress.

So bankers accomplished rapidly what they had been seeking in vain for a half century to accomplish.

Similarily printers have tried without success to persuade the post office to cease selling printed envelopes.

Although the post office still sells them profit consciousness of the post office department has caused the rate to be raised so that the nation's taxpayers no longer heavily subsidize the printing presses.

It is much easier now for printers to compete with the federal government. They offer faster service, more flexibility in ink colors, size, paper quality and color and permit advertising messages.

Price differences are no longer as sharp as they once were.

If the post office department always had been as conscious of profits as it is today it never would have sold either postal savings or printed envelopes.

THE LONG ARRANGEMENT

U.S. Senator Edward V. Long has announced he intends to determine if the Internal Revenue Service leaked information to Life magazine concerning legal fees he is receiving from St. Louis attorney Morris Shenker.

We can certainly understand why Senator Long would be upset over any IRS disclosure, although we suspect that IRS is innocent of the good Senator's charges. When more than one person knows something, it no longer is a secret, and Shenker's associates in St. Louis and behind prison bars are perhaps not always as discreet as they should be.

Senator Long still denies any conflict of interest in his legal association with the Shenker law firm which in recent years has paid him each year approximately what the Governor of Missouri receives in salary.

Missouri's junior Senator may be telling the truth when he denies that any of his legal association with Shenker involves federal agencies. Yet Shenker's own law firm, as distinguished from Long's own law firm, deals very directly with federal agencies in Washington. And when an attorney has a U.S. Senator on his payroll, it is much easier to deal with federal agencies. Thus the fee arrangement, as far as Shenker was concerned, was of material benefit. The fee arrangement, as far as Long was concerned, was also of material benefit, in the amount of $24,000 a year material benefit.

The only persons who haven't benefitted from the arrangement are the citizens of Missouri.

We expect they will make other and more satisfactory arrangements when Senator Long comes around for another six-year "retainer" in next year's election. - Daily Dunklin Democrat

Life and death were just 15 hours apart for a Texas motorist whose car slammed into the supports for a big freeway exit sign when he was forced off the road in a blinding rainstorm.

A year earlier, another driver had demolished his car against the same sign's rigid supports and died of his injuries.

This driver was luckier. Just 15 hours before, a highway department crew had installed new breakaway supports for the sign. The driver and his passengers were not hurt, and his car sustained only $500 in damages.

It was the first "live" test for the new signs, which are designed to crack in the middle and give way when struck by a moving vehicle.

Last year, the signs were tested extensively in collisions with driverless cars. Crashes were recorded by high-speed cameras, and research teams studied the films to assess dynamics of various sign structures during collision.

The basic features of the breakaway sign support are a slip joint at its base and a break plate at the bottom of the sign face. The slip joint allows the sign post to slip free of its foundation on impact. The cast-iron plate cracks the post when it is hit, creating a hinge effect that allows the crashing auto to pass under the collapsing structure safely.

Although more research on the break-away sign is underway, the current model is being installed in various parts of the state to field test the basic design.

"We think we've arrived at a workable sign, one that will save lives, but don't consider the current model the ultimate," reports D.C. Greer, Texas state highway engineer.

The signs were developed in a joint research project by the Texas Highway Department and the Texas Transportation Institute of Texas A&M University, in cooperation with the Bureau of Public Roads.

VIET RAT HOLES NOW PLUGGED?

President Johnson, referring to those who are calling for the United States to halt its bombing of North Viet Nam, said the other day that "I don't quite understand why you want me to have our Marines and airmen pause and put their hands behind their backs while the other people don't pause and continue to shoot at them."

Most Americans will share the President's inability to understand this reasoning. But something they will find even more difficult to understand is why this country has supplied, and apparently still is supplying, the enemy with much of the wherewithal he needs to continue shooting at our soldiers, Marines and airmen.

According to the House Government Operations Committee, cling testimony taken last May from the deputy director of the Agency for International Development (AID) mission to Saigon, "at least 60 per cent of the aid is diverted from the purpose for which it is intended."

In the fiscal year ending in June, a total of $728 million in economic aid, including $420 million in consumer goods, was pumped into South Viet Nam. This is exclusive of military aid, and exclusive of what 300,000 GIs are spending on their own.

Large amounts of AID shipments have been diverted to the Viet Cong, says the committee. Some of it has found its way to Cambodia, Thailand and Communist China.

Not quite as bad, but bad enough, is that all this aid has flooded a South Vietnamese economy too small to absorb it, contributing to graft, corruption and black marketing.

A nine-month investigation is summed up in the committee's 125-page report with a charge of "unconscionable mismanagement" and "general abdication of responsibility" on the part of the Departments of State and Defense, the General Accounting Office, the U.S. Information Agency and, particularly, AID.

The committee acknowledges that "many effective steps" have been taken, before and since the investigation, to plug the leaks and correct the abuses in the aid program.

What the taxpaying public would like to know is, have ALL the necessary steps been taken, and if not, why not? And why was such a situation allowed to develop in the first place?

It may be some comfort to know that the United States is rich enough to finance both its own troops and the enemy's, make contributions to the economies of three other nations and create black market millionaires on the side without seriously straining itself. But it is a strange way to run a war.

Maybe we should start bombing our own supply lines.

BEST FOR SMALL STATES

Recently in Washington, D.C., I was surprised to find some Congressmen from small states in favor of abolishing the Electoral College and providing for election of the President and Vice President by direct vote. Such a plan would penalize their own states.

The Electoral College system was one of the fundamental tenets used by the Founders of Freedom in making the United States a Republic. A bonus voting power in the Electoral College was provided the small states to induce them to join in forming the Republic. This was accomplished by giving each state, no matter how small, two electors at large plus one elector for each Congressional District.

Today four of the small states, Alaska, Nevada, Wyoming and Vermont, have a combined population of 1,230,000 and 12 electoral votes, giving the people of these states one presidential elector per 100,000 population. The people of New York and California, by contrast, have a voting power of one electoral vote for about 391,608 population.

The bonus voting power will be retained under the Congressional District Plan for reforming the Electroal College. Under this plan, every state would continue to have two electors at large and one for each Congressional District. But the system under which all of a state's electoral votes goes to the candidate with a plurality of the popular vote would be abandoned.

Several resolutions for a constitutional amendment to change the Electoral College system are now before Congress. Good citizens owe it to their country to seek publicity for or against them so the people may be informed. HLH.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Rep. Manny Celler, distinguished and much-loved elder statesman from Brooklyn, has promised to pass a crime institute bill for research into crime, but he seems just a bit skittish about J. Edgar Hoover and another Brooklyn congressman, John Rooney. Celler is shying away from putting any authorization for crime research into the new anti-crime bill proposed by President Johnson.

The latter bill will pass fairly soon, though not under the original name -- the "safe streets" bill. Republicans didn't like this title because privately they plan to use safe streets as a campaign issue against Johnson in 1968. The legislation has been tagged "the national crime bill."

Meanwhile, Rep. James Scheuer, a New York Democrat who comes from the Bronx, not Brooklyn, worked out a comprehensive plan for research into the causes of crime, how to get more community support for the police, and cures for crime. Scheuer proposed a new assistant attorney general in the justice department to handle this.

However, J. Edgar Hoover objected. Over the years Hoover has always protested when anyone in the justice department wanted to backstop the FBI. This was the basic reason for the long-standing feud between Hoover and Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy.

Rep. Scheuer tried to sell his idea to Attorney General Ramsey Clark, who liked it but stated frankly that he could not take on J. Edgar Hoover. Hoover has now received his third dispensation to serve beyond the statutory retirement age of 70. He is now 73. Ramsey, a young man coming up in the government, shied away from any showdown.

Also opposing the idea of any research into crime is crusty, cantankerous John Rooney, the Brooklyn congressman who rides herd on justice department appropriations. If he won't vote the money for research into the cause and cure of crime, the money isn't going to be voted.

Republicans, however, are not so easily intimidated. Robert McClory, Republic of Illinois, has now introduced Scheuer's bill in the judiciary committee and proposes to push it whether J. Edgar Hoover or John Rooney like it or not.

FLORIDA GIVEAWAY

An innocuous looking bill, so technical most senators won't pay much attention to it, comes up in the senate commerce committee tomorrow (June 6). Actually it will drive a hole bigger than a 10-ton truck through the federal power commission, the agency entrusted with protecting the public from being gouged by the big gas, oil and power companies.

The bill is the pet of two Florida senators, white - haired Spessard Holland and handsome George Smathers. It would give the Florida power and light company special exemption from the federal power commission on the ground that it is not in interstate commerce.

The commission, after lengthy hearings, recently held that Florida power and light did operate in interstate commerce. So what the two senators have done is to introduce a bill which, if passed, would overrule the power commission. In effect, it's a private bill aimed at giving special privilege to the ninth largest utility in the nation.

Last year a clumsily drawn bill aimed at the same exemption was narrowly defeated in the senate commerce committee 9 to 8, with all Republicans plus Republicrat Frank Lausche of Ohio and Howard Cannon, Democrat of Las Vegas, Nev., voting for the big utility. The Republicans supporting the private bonanza for the Florida utility included Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Norris Cotton of New Hampshire, whose states are big power consumers; also Thruston Morton, Ky., Winston Prouty, Vt., and Bob Griffin, Mich.

This time Florida powgr and light was smarter. It hired astute Mike Feldman, former counsel to President Kennedy, and he has done a much better job of drafting the bill.

UNIQUE RECORD

However, Florida power and light comes before the senate with a highly interesting record. In the first place a utility consultant hired by Miami estimates it overcharged its customers by millions of dollars while operating under the complacent Florida Public Service Commission.

Second, it was Benjamin Fugua, vice president of Florida power, who lobbied with the late Richard Mack, a federal communications commissioner later indicted in the case, regarding Miami's scandal-ridden channel 10. McGregor Smith, Chairman of Florida power and light, and Fugua also intervened with commissioner Mack regarding another TV application.

While Florida power wants to undercut the FPC, both President Kennedy and President Johnson have built it up. Kennedy appointed tough Joe Swidler as chairman, while Johnson has appointed Lee White to replace him. Meanwhile, Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., staunch friend of the consumer, is repairing an administration bill which not only would block the Holland-Smathers giveaway but intermingle interstate power so as to prevent blackouts similar to that which paralyzed New York Nov. 9, 1965.

PROFILES IN TERROR

Ten Confidential FBI Reports to Hoover Reveal Vast Powers of Cosa Nostra's Own Supreme Court.

Providence, R.I.: -- For the first time an hour by hour, kaledioscopic view of daily life in the Mafia -- plotting, terror, disciplining of recalcitrant sons, developing of enterprising shakedowns and businesses, manipulating of some local unions and even a method of getting a favor from an official, now a famed U.S. Senator, is available in a most authoritative sheaf of documents.

As though these papers were the script for an episodic mod movie, they disclose threats by the alledged Cosa Nostra chief to declare martial law in Boston; his directive to a young tough to telephone his mother twice a week and an ingenious plan to shake down 400 doctors.

All this and a bloody lot more are in a set of 10 raw reports dispatched to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover by his Special Agent In Charge of the bureau's Boston headquarters.

These reports are in the Federal Court docket here because they were subpoenaed some time ago by the defense in an Internal Revenue Case. In them are a score of stories -- not the least of which is the alledged Mafia boss' opinion that Joe Bonanno had himself kidnapped to deceive the national crime syndicate's ruling "Commission."

But far more important, it seems to me, than the interwoven series of vignettes is the ceaseless activity of the Cosa Nostra: its reaching into such areas as Maine which experts long had thought clean of the Mafia; its high courts and supreme power over every hour -- waking or sleeping -- of its bosses, dons, and troops.

After analyzing and reanalyzing these documents, it is certain that the Mafia is as all-pervading in vast sections of New England, from the Connecticut border up to Maine, as it is in New York, sections of New Jersey, parts of Florida; areas of Louisiana, up and down the Mississippi River, and Chicago.

A Connecticut union official, for example, is described as "hiring only union members with criminal records." And there is the thug who wants to get himself on another local union's pension roster.

Another report, obviously based on wiretapping or some form of electronic wizardry, records the plaint of a tough supplicant to the alleged boss who himself is a Commission member. The appellant tells the chief that he wants his son to telephone the mother at least twice a week and send her $10 regularly because she is not well. The boss rules that the boy must call his mother twice a week, send the $10 and visit the elderly lady at least once every two weeks.

At another time there is recorded the talk of a hood and the alleged Cosa Nostra czar about a scheme to force two medical groups in New York to merge. There are 400 in all and at $100 a piece each for initiation fees, it sounds like a good thing.

"Doctors scare easily," says the schemer, according to these court records. The FBI report states that when the Mafia man "met one of the doctors, he (the doctor) 'knew who we were and what it was all about'." The FBI reports this as an effort to shake down the doctors and quotes the Cosa Nostra operative as saying, "we'll get in there somehow."

The power of the national Mafia Commission to reach into labor, business and the professions is vast because the Cosa Nostra operations are vast. The Justice Dept.'s Criminal Division has amassed 300,000 index cards reflecting the movements of more than 3,000 syndicate "principals."

Despite all the talk of an anti-crime crusade, the 3,000 figure is an increase of 600 principals during the past fiscal year.

Yet the entire Criminal Division, of which the Organized Crime and Racketeering section is but part, has asked only for $3,777,500 for the 1968 fiscal year. This is just an increase of $176,800 over 1967. Why so little?

Why have only eight new attorneys been sought for the fight against the kind of organized crime outlined in the FBI documents?

Why does the labor rackets unit, which fights as much to preserve clean unions and safeguard small businesses as fights the looting, now have only five lawyers? It would take that many just to do a good job on the new probe into some New England locals.

Why are there a large "number of areas" according to the Justice Dept., covered by a single Criminal Division lawyer, when each district should have its own?

Doesn't anyone on the Congressional Appropriations Committee read the reports? They're up here for the asking.

Or is no one very much interested in asking?

The prospective bridegroom is a senior at Matthews high school and is employed by Causey Brothers Masonary Construction Company in Sikeston.

Food Buying Habits Change

KENNETT - Buying habits in the food market are changing and the make-up of our population effects this considerably. There are 50 million more people in the United States than there were in 1943.

Family groups shopping on Friday evenings or Saturday are nothing uncommon in the markets. With more and more women working outside of the home convenience, better quality, built-in service have overshadowed some other factors. Homemakers are willing to pay for service and convenience. Shopping decisions are made by 84 percent women and men share 10-1/2 percent of the decisions.

The changing shopping patterns are influenced by age. Civic demand for the age group 30 to 45 years is high. Over one-half of consumers are buying for three or less while one-fourth are buying for three or more.

Impulse buying has its impact on the shopper. Less than one-third of the shoppers check newspaper ads before shopping and only 37 percent carry shopping lists according to a survey. This accounts for the reason 69 percent of all the items you buy are bought on impulse. The impulse buying in the frozen foods department amount to 82 percent of the sales.

The demand for convenience has stimulated the food industry's constant search for products, ways to improve old ones and for better packages.

Some of the packaging which add to convenience are the smoke meat paper which does not breathe. Packaged fresh meats are wrapped in shrink film which breathe or rather allow air to reach the meat. For this reason the wrapper need not be removed when the shrink film is used.

Have you used the eight cent rule when buying eggs? If there is eight cents difference in the price of the same quality eggs between the sizes next to it, they are the same price per pound. For instance if there is less than eight cents difference between the medium and large eggs, the large eggs are the better buy.

Report Shows More Regard for Play Is Needed

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Christians need to have more regard for play, and less for work.

That's the conclusion of a three-year study carried out by a special commission of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

"We should emphasize play because there is so much in our intellectual atmosphere that is destructive of the play spirit," the report says.

The study was made in an effort to assess new conditions arising through mounting production requiring less human labor, resulting in increasing leisure. It was aimed to bring Biblical perspectives to bear on the situation.

Up to now, the Protestant ethic has "glorified economic labor" and sometimes has appeared "to be more of a commercial ideology than a Christian doctrine of man," the report says.

"Part of our mental furniture is that 'every man should work for what he gets.' The man who lives off the labors of another is judged guilty of the sin of sloth; he is more than unclean; he is somehow less than a man."

However, the findings stress that "neither toil nor compensated labor is glorified by Scripture as the ultimate spiritual necessity. God's gift of partnership is not a sentence to eternal drudgery; neither is the pay check the chief end of man."

In fact, the Scriptures themselves "are playful" in spirit, and see experiences as "worthwhile in themselves," without their being productive of goods or income, the report says.

"The ideal man of the Bible was the leisured man. For him leisure was not simply 'time off.' He was a man of freedom—free to choose his activity. His choice was most often to pursue truth and knowledge, especially of God," the report adds.

In the middle 20th century, it is pointed out, fewer people are needed to supply agricultural and other needs, and predictions are that eventually 10 per cent of the populace can perform all the work needed for the physical welfare of all people.

"The Christian church is called upon to speak about 'play' as a crucial element in the leisure of liberation" and "to broaden its understanding of leisure beyond that which justifies leisure only as the producer of a desired end—a product."

The need was seen for more recognition of the value of doing things simply "for the sake of beauty, joy and the fullness of living. The mystics, the romanticists, and the poets have seen this playful spirit in Christianity in a way that the utilitarian West often has not."

The report, which the United Presbyterian governing assembly last week ordered circulated throughout the 3.3-million-member denomination, was prepared by a group including businessmen, sociologists, government experts, psychologists, pastors, theologians and others.

Sikeston, Missouri
Dear Sir:

One year ago the tanker Manuela, in International waters, approached Beira harbor. The British warship Berwick, directed by Fleet Admiral Wilson, waived the rules, closed with the Manuela, boarded her with twelve armed men and ordered her to turn back.

Victory was total. The Manuela agreed to proceed on a southerly course away from Beira. To this day British warships exercise a limited blockade of Beria harbor as British merchantmen haul supplies to unblockaded Haiphong.

Now the hypocritical Admiral is wearing his Peace - Diplomat hat and pleads with all maritime nations to sign a joint declaration of freedom of the seas.

Under the bankrupt United Nations banner, the Free World coexists with evil by expediency and accommodation. The Soviet NO cancels out action; initiates fearful discretion. Free World architects design and attempt to build bridges of understanding subverters.

National pride and love of freedom is on the wane but considerable remains with the Israeli people and government. The Israels' may be able to open their own back door in spite of the hand wringing of Harold Wilson and the pleas of U. Miss Barbara Kaye Rogers

Barbara Kaye Rogers to Wed Travis Gene Causey

MATTHEWS - Mr. and Mrs. Willis Rogers announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Barbara Kaye, to Travis Gene Causey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Causey, route three, Sikeston. The bride-elect is a 1967 graduate of Matthews high school.

The prospective bridegroom is a senior at Matthews high school and is employed by Causey Brothers Masonary Construction Company in Sikeston.

Plans are being made for a June wedding.

Food Buying Habits Change

KENNETT - Buying habits in the food market are changing and the make-up of our population effects this considerably. There are 50 million more people in the United States than there were in 1943.

Family groups shopping on Friday evenings or Saturday are nothing uncommon in the markets. With more and more women working outside of the home convenience, better quality, built-in service have overshadowed some other factors. Homemakers are willing to pay for service and convenience. Shopping decisions are made by 84 percent women and men share 10-1/2 percent of the decisions.

The changing shopping patterns are influenced by age. Civic demand for the age group 30 to 45 years is high. Over one-half of consumers are buying for three or less while one-fourth are buying for three or more.

Impulse buying has its impact on the shopper. Less than one-third of the shoppers check newspaper ads before shopping and only 37 percent carry shopping lists according to a survey. This accounts for the reason 69 percent of all the items you buy are bought on impulse. The impulse buying in the frozen foods department amount to 82 percent of the sales.

The demand for convenience has stimulated the food industry's constant search for products, ways to improve old ones and for better packages.

Some of the packaging which add to convenience are the smoke meat paper which does not breathe. Packaged fresh meats are wrapped in shrink film which breathe or rather allow air to reach the meat. For this reason the wrapper need not be removed when the shrink film is used.

Have you used the eight cent rule when buying eggs? If there is eight cents difference in the price of the same quality eggs between the sizes next to it, they are the same price per pound. For instance if there is less than eight cents difference between the medium and large eggs, the large eggs are the better buy.

Report Shows More Regard for Play Is Needed

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Christians need to have more regard for play, and less for work.

That's the conclusion of a three-year study carried out by a special commission of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

"We should emphasize play because there is so much in our intellectual atmosphere that is destructive of the play spirit," the report says.

The study was made in an effort to assess new conditions arising through mounting production requiring less human labor, resulting in increasing leisure. It was aimed to bring Biblical perspectives to bear on the situation.

Up to now, the Protestant ethic has "glorified economic labor" and sometimes has appeared "to be more of a commercial ideology than a Christian doctrine of man," the report says.

"Part of our mental furniture is that 'every man should work for what he gets.' The man who lives off the labors of another is judged guilty of the sin of sloth; he is more than unclean; he is somehow less than a man."

However, the findings stress that "neither toil nor compensated labor is glorified by Scripture as the ultimate spiritual necessity. God's gift of partnership is not a sentence to eternal drudgery; neither is the pay check the chief end of man."

In fact, the Scriptures themselves "are playful" in spirit, and see experiences as "worthwhile in themselves," without their being productive of goods or income, the report says.

"The ideal man of the Bible was the leisured man. For him leisure was not simply 'time off.' He was a man of freedom—free to choose his activity. His choice was most often to pursue truth and knowledge, especially of God," the report adds.

In the middle 20th century, it is pointed out, fewer people are needed to supply agricultural and other needs, and predictions are that eventually 10 per cent of the populace can perform all the work needed for the physical welfare of all people.

"The Christian church is called upon to speak about 'play' as a crucial element in the leisure of liberation" and "to broaden its understanding of leisure beyond that which justifies leisure only as the producer of a desired end—a product."

The need was seen for more recognition of the value of doing things simply "for the sake of beauty, joy and the fullness of living. The mystics, the romanticists, and the poets have seen this playful spirit in Christianity in a way that the utilitarian West often has not."

The report, which the United Presbyterian governing assembly last week ordered circulated throughout the 3.3-million-member denomination, was prepared by a group including businessmen, sociologists, government experts, psychologists, pastors, theologians and others.

Letters to the Editor

The Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Missouri
Dear Sir:

One year ago the tanker Manuela, in International waters, approached Beira harbor. The British warship Berwick, directed by Fleet Admiral Wilson, waived the rules, closed with the Manuela, boarded her with twelve armed men and ordered her to turn back.

Victory was total. The Manuela agreed to proceed on a southerly course away from Beira. To this day British warships exercise a limited blockade of Beria harbor as British merchantmen haul supplies to unblockaded Haiphong.

Now the hypocritical Admiral is wearing his Peace - Diplomat hat and pleads with all maritime nations to sign a joint declaration of freedom of the seas.

Under the bankrupt United Nations banner, the Free World coexists with evil by expediency and accommodation. The Soviet NO cancels out action; initiates fearful discretion. Free World architects design and attempt to build bridges of understanding subverters.

National pride and love of freedom is on the wane but considerable remains with the Israeli people and government. The Israels' may be able to open their own back door in spite of the hand wringing of Harold Wilson and the pleas of U. Thant and Arthur Goldberg for restraint and the sacrifice of National integrity.

Yours truly,

WRINKLES

by Marie Davant

NEW YORK:—Chemical science has found a white substance made with quicksilver that works wonders on wrinkled, roughened face and hands. Use it one time and it is entirely possible you will see improvement next morning. In a few days dry-skin wrinkles start to vanish. Many of the small ones around the eyes and mouth have already disappeared. But that is not all! "Old-Age" (weathered) brown spots on hands and arms—brown "age" darkness on surface of face and neck fades away! Rich oils lubricate pores so blackheads can slip out without squeezing. Surface pimples and blemishes and scars, outwardly caused, dry up or become less noticeable! But don't take my word for it. Make a 6-day test without risking one penny. Just get a jar of Peacock's Imperial Creme at your favorite department or drug store. Use this thrilling cream for 6 days—satisfaction guaranteed by The Mitchum Company or return unused portion to retailer for full refund. No questions asked. Peacock's Imperial Creme can work wonders for wrinkles, lines, brown spots and other weathered blemishes. You may obtain Imperial Creme for $2.00 at SHY'S DRUG. Clip this out.

WHERE IS EVERYBODY?

Where is everybody? Well, I'll tell you: My doctor is in Palm Springs, my dentist is in Honolulu, my TV repairman is in Bermuda, and my hairdresser is in the Virgin Islands, and my cleaning woman is in Las Vegas. It's rough with them gone. But one nice thing, if they all stay away long enough, perhaps I can save enough money to go someplace.

Pitcher Rich Nye's routine fly ended Curt Flood's National League record string of errorless games at 227, but the Cardinals Lou Brock saved Flood from the humiliation of losing the game.

Flood, upset and disappointed, following the Cards' 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Sunday, said he felt the error "could have gone either way."

"The center fielder is supposed to go after every ball he can get to," Flood said. "If he calls the other player is supposed to leave it."

The other player—Lou Brock—and Flood both called for the ball. They both yelled again for the ball just as Nye's fifth-inning fly ball came down. Then, Flood said, the two bumped elbows. It was Flood's first error in 553 chances.

Nye went to second on the play. He moved up on an infield out and scored on Glen Beckert's sacrifice fly. The run broke a 2-2 tie.

Brock, who had hit homer No. 13 in the first inning, singled in the eighth inning to break a 3-3 tie and score Dave Ricketts with the winning run.

The victory went to rookie Dick Hughes, who allowed the Cubs only three hits.

The National League-leading Reds ran up a 5-0 lead against Atlanta Sunday, then held off the Braves 5-4 for their fourth straight victory. It was the 14th one-run game for the Reds in their last 15.

Cincinnati's third one-run verdict over Atlanta in three days protected the Reds three-game lead over second place St. Louis. Third place San Francisco swept a doubleheader from the fading New York Mets 7-0 and 5-0, Pittsburgh trimmed Los Angeles 4-1 and Philadelphia overcame Houston 6-1 in other games.

Kansas City divided an American League doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox, winning the nightcap 5-4 after bowing 2-0, while Detroit slammed New York 11-7 in 13 innings after the Yankees took the doubleheader opener 5-0, Cleveland blanked Boston 3-0, Minnesota shaded California 8-7 in 10 innings and Baltimore outlasted Washington 7-9 in 19 innings.

The Reds' string of squeakers — interrupted only by a 6-1 victory at Pittsburgh two weeks ago — began on May 21 with a 2-1 loss to Philadelphia in 18 innings. They have broken even in the 14 one-run games, which include four overtime struggles.

Andy Etchebarren, unable to bunt, summoned enough energy to launch the high-flying Baltimore Orioles into the air, taking along a couple of patient young baseball fans who must have been flying even higher.

Etchebarren, after failing to bunt twice, cracked a two-run home run in the 19th inning that lifted the Orioles over Washington 7-5, Sunday, ending the longest game of the baseball season.

Dick McAuliffe did not wait as long to send the Detroit Tigers back into first place in the American League as he blasted a grand slam homer in the 13th inning for an 11-7 victory over the New York Yankees in the nightcap of their twinbill. New York won the opener 2-0.

McAuliffe unloaded his ninth season homer and fifth career slam with two out after Bill Freehan doubled and loser Dooley Womack walked two.

Winner, Worker Gagliano Brings Series to Memphis

By CHARLES CAVAGNARO
OF THE SPORTING NEWS

MEMPHIS, Tenn. -- Since the burning of Russwood Park in 1960 and the subsequent decline and fall of the Southern League's Memphis Chicks, one name has dominated baseball activity in the Mid-South.

Tony Gagliano, whose efforts have gone beyond the playing field in recent years, has taken command in Memphis. His American Legion clubs have won nine of the last ten Tennessee championships and advanced to the finals of the Legion World Series twice in the last four years.

Even though the 50-year-old Gagliano has posted a record of 285 victories and only 50 defeats in Legion activity since 1957, his two most recent projects have meant far more to area fans.

His initial venture was to spearhead the construction of a new baseball diamond in the Fairgrounds. The field has 2,500 sheltered seats and is being expanded to almost 5,000 for tournament play.

The field was built in 1963 and is regarded as one of the finest American Legion and schoolboy diamonds in the area. It took many appearances at city hearings and an untold amount of behind-the-scene maneuverings before Gagliano and Memphis' 20 other Legion coaches could play at the Fairgrounds.

Once this was accomplished, he turned his attention toward still another important project - the Legion World Series.

Tony Landed '67 Finals

With the same determination, Gagliano almost singlehandedly won the nod of the Legion's Americanism Commission. The 1967 tournament is scheduled at the Fairgrounds, August 31-September 5.

During Gagliano's 10-year career at the helm of Legion teams basically composed of athletes from Christian Brothers High School, he has sent 11 players into professional baseball.

These athletes received total bonuses estimated at $315,000. The Cardinals plucked three Gagliano prizes, the Yankees a pair and the remainder signed with the Angels, Dodgers, Reds, Indians, Giants and Red Sox.

The premier bonus baby was catcher Tim McCarver, who signed with the Cardinals in 1959 for an estimated $75,000. Tim has proved well worth it.

The other major leaguer from Gagliano's Gang is Phil Gagliano, Cardinal third baseman. Phil, the coach's nephew, signed in 1960 for a conservative $15,000. He and McCarver were teammates at Christian Brothers High School.

Still another Gagliano has made his mark in professional ball. Ralph, a younger brother of Phil, reportedly received $60,000 from the Indians in 1964.

Two other standouts were bracketed in the $40,000 range Pitcher John Schroeppel, who headed the Bill Speros Legion club to a 35-2 record in 1963 (best in the nation), is a top prospect with Binghamton (Eastern,) the Yankees' Double-A club.

Shortstop Buddy Lawhorn, captain of the 1965 club, signed with the Angels last year.

Won Two Series Berths

Schroeppel and Lawhorn were the leading figures in Gagliano's two greatest Legion successes. Schroeppel's 1963 club advanced to the World Series in Keene, N.H., while Lawhorn led the 1965 entry to the finals at Aberdeen, S.D.

The Gagliano magic touch extended to high school baseball from 1958 until 1964. Tennessee's athletic association passed a ruling in 1964 prohibiting a non-salaried teacher from the coaching paths. Gagliano, a successful Memphis businessman who refuses a salary, was moved to the sidelines.

During his seven-year schoolboy span, he registered a 116-20 won-loss record, including three state championships.

But for a cool 1935 spring day at spring training in Florida, Gagliano, a pitcher, might have made his mark in professional baseball. He was signed by the Giants and was sent to Nashville. He hurt his right arm in a game against Chattanooga and the curve-ball specialist never made the grade.

After his professional days, he joined a club in the All-Memphis League, a fast amateur circuit.

One of Mid-South's Best

Gagliano, named to an all-time Memphis Legion club picked in the early 1950's, is still regarded as one of the best pitchers in Mid-South history. When only 14 years old, he pitched John A. Denie's to the city's runner-up honors.

He pitched three more seasons of Legion baseball, leading his club to the state championship in 1933. In his final Legion season, he posted a 15-1 record, averaging 13 strikeouts a game. His only loss was in the regional at Gastonia, N.C.

Only a bullet could slow Tony's vigorous pace this spring. On May 23, while talking to police after a burglary at his store, a gun he was carrying discharged and struck him in the left leg.

The wound wasn't considered serious and friends expected him to bounce back quickly - winning and working as usual.

Dalton Named To Scottish Rite Schools Group

ST. LOUIS - Former Governor and Attorney General John M. Dalton has been appointed chairman of the Missouri Scottish Rite committee for the free public schools, it was announced today by Walter C. Ploeser, Missouri Deputy to the Supreme Council of the Scottish Rite, Washington, D.C.

The committee, which will include representatives from the four Scottish Rite Valleys of Missouri including St. Louis, St. Joseph, Joplin and Kansas City, will meet to formulate plans.

At the same time, it was announced that the committee will develop liaison with other groups dedicated to the same goal.

Pointing out that the Scottish Rite, the largest branch of Freemasonry, is committed to all-out support of the public schools as the basic educational foundation of the United States, Dalton stated that the problems the public schools are encountering, particularly in the urban areas, "have become critical."

"We cannot permit this situation to continue," the former governor said. "Therefore, the Scottish Rite will do everything in its power to obtain the increased financial and other assistance they so desperately require.

Pitcher Rich Nye's routine fly ended Curt Flood's National League record string of errorless games at 227, but the Cardinals Lou Brock saved Flood from the humiliation of losing the game.

Flood, upset and disappointed, following the Cards' 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Sunday, said he felt the error "could have gone either way."

"The center fielder is supposed to go after every ball he can get to," Flood said. "If he calls the other player is supposed to leave it."

The other player—Lou Brock—and Flood both called for the ball. They both yelled again for the ball just as Nye's fifth-inning fly ball came down. Then, Flood said, the two bumped elbows. It was Flood's first error in 553 chances.

Nye went to second on the play. He moved up on an infield out and scored on Glen Beckert's sacrifice fly. The run broke a 2-2 tie.

Brock, who had hit homer No. 13 in the first inning, singled in the eighth inning to break a 3-3 tie and score Dave Ricketts with the winning run.

The victory went to rookie Dick Hughes, who allowed the Cubs only three hits.

The National League-leading Reds ran up a 5-0 lead against Atlanta Sunday, then held off the Braves 5-4 for their fourth straight victory. It was the 14th one-run game for the Reds in their last 15.

Cincinnati's third one-run verdict over Atlanta in three days protected the Reds three-game lead over second place St. Louis. Third place San Francisco swept a doubleheader from the fading New York Mets 7-0 and 5-0, Pittsburgh trimmed Los Angeles 4-1 and Philadelphia overcame Houston 6-1 in other games.

Kansas City divided an American League doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox, winning the nightcap 5-4 after bowing 2-0, while Detroit slammed New York 11-7 in 13 innings after the Yankees took the doubleheader opener 5-0, Cleveland blanked Boston 3-0, Minnesota shaded California 8-7 in 10 innings and Baltimore outlasted Washington 7-9 in 19 innings.

The Reds' string of squeakers — interrupted only by a 6-1 victory at Pittsburgh two weeks ago — began on May 21 with a 2-1 loss to Philadelphia in 18 innings. They have broken even in the 14 one-run games, which include four overtime struggles.

Andy Etchebarren, unable to bunt, summoned enough energy to launch the high-flying Baltimore Orioles into the air, taking along a couple of patient young baseball fans who must have been flying even higher.

Etchebarren, after failing to bunt twice, cracked a two-run home run in the 19th inning that lifted the Orioles over Washington 7-5, Sunday, ending the longest game of the baseball season.

Dick McAuliffe did not wait as long to send the Detroit Tigers back into first place in the American League as he blasted a grand slam homer in the 13th inning for an 11-7 victory over the New York Yankees in the nightcap of their twinbill. New York won the opener 2-0.

McAuliffe unloaded his ninth season homer and fifth career slam with two out after Bill Freehan doubled and loser Dooley Womack walked two.

Winner, Worker Gagliano Brings Series to Memphis

By CHARLES CAVAGNARO
OF THE SPORTING NEWS

MEMPHIS, Tenn. -- Since the burning of Russwood Park in 1960 and the subsequent decline and fall of the Southern League's Memphis Chicks, one name has dominated baseball activity in the Mid-South.

Tony Gagliano, whose efforts have gone beyond the playing field in recent years, has taken command in Memphis. His American Legion clubs have won nine of the last ten Tennessee championships and advanced to the finals of the Legion World Series twice in the last four years.

Even though the 50-year-old Gagliano has posted a record of 285 victories and only 50 defeats in Legion activity since 1957, his two most recent projects have meant far more to area fans.

His initial venture was to spearhead the construction of a new baseball diamond in the Fairgrounds. The field has 2,500 sheltered seats and is being expanded to almost 5,000 for tournament play.

The field was built in 1963 and is regarded as one of the finest American Legion and schoolboy diamonds in the area. It took many appearances at city hearings and an untold amount of behind-the-scene maneuverings before Gagliano and Memphis' 20 other Legion coaches could play at the Fairgrounds.

Once this was accomplished, he turned his attention toward still another important project - the Legion World Series.

Tony Landed '67 Finals

With the same determination, Gagliano almost singlehandedly won the nod of the Legion's Americanism Commission. The 1967 tournament is scheduled at the Fairgrounds, August 31-September 5.

During Gagliano's 10-year career at the helm of Legion teams basically composed of athletes from Christian Brothers High School, he has sent 11 players into professional baseball.

These athletes received total bonuses estimated at $315,000. The Cardinals plucked three Gagliano prizes, the Yankees a pair and the remainder signed with the Angels, Dodgers, Reds, Indians, Giants and Red Sox.

The premier bonus baby was catcher Tim McCarver, who signed with the Cardinals in 1959 for an estimated $75,000. Tim has proved well worth it.

The other major leaguer from Gagliano's Gang is Phil Gagliano, Cardinal third baseman. Phil, the coach's nephew, signed in 1960 for a conservative $15,000. He and McCarver were teammates at Christian Brothers High School.

Still another Gagliano has made his mark in professional ball. Ralph, a younger brother of Phil, reportedly received $60,000 from the Indians in 1964.

Two other standouts were bracketed in the $40,000 range Pitcher John Schroeppel, who headed the Bill Speros Legion club to a 35-2 record in 1963 (best in the nation), is a top prospect with Binghamton (Eastern,) the Yankees' Double-A club.

Shortstop Buddy Lawhorn, captain of the 1965 club, signed with the Angels last year.

Won Two Series Berths

Schroeppel and Lawhorn were the leading figures in Gagliano's two greatest Legion successes. Schroeppel's 1963 club advanced to the World Series in Keene, N.H., while Lawhorn led the 1965 entry to the finals at Aberdeen, S.D.

The Gagliano magic touch extended to high school baseball from 1958 until 1964. Tennessee's athletic association passed a ruling in 1964 prohibiting a non-salaried teacher from the coaching paths. Gagliano, a successful Memphis businessman who refuses a salary, was moved to the sidelines.

During his seven-year schoolboy span, he registered a 116-20 won-loss record, including three state championships.

But for a cool 1935 spring day at spring training in Florida, Gagliano, a pitcher, might have made his mark in professional baseball. He was signed by the Giants and was sent to Nashville. He hurt his right arm in a game against Chattanooga and the curve-ball specialist never made the grade.

After his professional days, he joined a club in the All-Memphis League, a fast amateur circuit.

One of Mid-South's Best

Gagliano, named to an all-time Memphis Legion club picked in the early 1950's, is still regarded as one of the best pitchers in Mid-South history. When only 14 years old, he pitched John A. Denie's to the city's runner-up honors.

He pitched three more seasons of Legion baseball, leading his club to the state championship in 1933. In his final Legion season, he posted a 15-1 record, averaging 13 strikeouts a game. His only loss was in the regional at Gastonia, N.C.

Only a bullet could slow Tony's vigorous pace this spring. On May 23, while talking to police after a burglary at his store, a gun he was carrying discharged and struck him in the left leg.

The wound wasn't considered serious and friends expected him to bounce back quickly - winning and working as usual.

Son of Canolou Couple Featured In Ohio Paper

The Rev. Grady Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Evans of Canalou, was featured in a story in a Cincinnati paper.

The Rev. Mr. Evans was reared in Canalou and received his bachelor of science degree from Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau.

The story:

"Most men have a hobby, golf, fishing or hunting. This is mine."

That's the simple explanation given by Rev. Grady Evans for a flock of extracurricular chores such as talking to Bible classes, directing evangelistic meetings, visiting homes and hospitals, conducting summer church camps.

They are extra because he also has two full-time jobs. He's pastor of Riverside Baptist church and a counselor at Woodward high school.

Adding interest to his story is the fact that this 31-year-old man was paralyzed by polio in all limbs before he was two years old. Physicians at three hospitals advised his parents to "Make him comfortable . . . death was inevitable."

But one doctor at a Holland hospital, more optimistic, prescribed constant massage and as Rev. Mr. Evans described, "for many many hours my mother litterally gave her life massaging paralyzed limbs."

Beside the massage, every possible treatment and corrective surgery in many hospitals in three states were given and, progressively, crutches and braces were discarded as successful surgery was performed.

As further therapy, after he was 10 years old, his father encouraged him to do farm chores, chopping, picking cotton, driving tractors and self - propelled combines.

Today, a slight limp is the only reminder of a childhood of physical suffering.

On the spiritual side, he has acquired "a divine gift of endurance" and a philosophy that "handicaps are only obstacles in a game of life. To win is victory!"

His parents also expected him to attend church services three times a week. This, too, influenced him because in his words, "It was the beginning of an eternal blessing."

His goal when he entered college was to become a physician, a medical missionary and perhaps a psychiatrist. But he changed his mind. As he told it:

"When I met a marvelous nurse, plans were slightly altered. Instead of entering the medical field, I married one who already had. Instead of becoming a foreign missionary, I became to have one. Instead of being a psychiatrist, as a counselor it is my privilege to be able to refer to psychiatrists those who need such assistance."

The Job Corps provides basic education and vocational training for out-of-school, out-of-work or underemployed young men and women between 16 and 21 years.

McBee has been managing editor, The Pleasant Hill Times, editor, The Register, Denver; a reporter for the Kansas City Star; associate editor of Bailey Publications, Independence; a writer for Westminster College, Fulton; editor for an Air Force weekly at Salina, Kan., and has worked in the advertising field.

He is secretary of the Kansas City area transportation authority and the Pleasant Hill planning and zoning commission; advisory trustee, Research hospital and Medical Center: a member of the alumni council, Westminster College and the Richards-Gebaur Air Base community council and the board of directors, Bureau of Information, Kansas City-St. Joseph Diocese. He served two terms as president of the Pleasant Hill Chamber of Commerce.

A graduate of Westminster College, he holds a bachelor of arts degree in political science. He is a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Thomason said McBee would coordinate community affairs of the 26 Job Corps centers in Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Colorado, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Montana, Wyoming, Utah and Idaho.

June Weather Should Be Near Normal

PORTAGEVILLE -- Temperatures over the Missouri Bootheel are expected to average near normal through June. Precipitation patterns anticipated over the middle of the nation suggest near normal rainfall for Missouri's southeast counties, but above normal over the balance of the states.

Centers of major high pressure systems will follow a path across the northern Plains through the Great Lakes region. This will permit occasional intrustions of cool air into the area. High pressure concentration over the southeast corner of the nation will account for warm, humid southerly winds flowing out of the Gulf region.

The path of most low pressure centers affecting the Bootheel will lie across northern Missouri. This pattern generally results in heavier than normal precipitation over most of the state, but more nearly normal rainfall totals in the Bootheel. It doesn't eliminate the possibility of locally heavy downpours during thunderstorms.

A week-long wet spell about the middle of May accounted for the heavy accumulations that brought monthly totals well above normal at ESSA Weather Bureau agricultural stations. The following amounts were recorded:

Sikeston 9.32 inches, Malden 7.59 inches, Caruthersville 8.98 inches, Portageville 10.00 inches, Poplar Bluff 6.76 inches, Kennett 11.92 inches, Charleston 9.01 inches.

ESSA Weather Bureau rain gages at the University of Missouri experiment field caught 11.06 inches, and 12.79 inches fell at Cairo, Ill. Normal precipitation for the Bootheel as a whole during June is 3.94 inches. Normals for individual cities are:

Caruthersville 3.36 inches, Fisk 4.32 inches, New Madrid 3.99 inches, Poplar Bluff, 4.16 inches, Dexter 4.35 inches, Morehouse 4.19 inches, Parma 4.06 inches, Sikeston 4.16 inches.

Short term averages for other cities are:

Malden 3.16 inches, Portageville 3.76 inches, Kennett 3.80 inches, Charleston 3.86 inches.

Usually we can look for about 10 days with precipitation in June. Patterns indicated for this month may favor intermittent wet periods of several days duration rather than the one day with showers and thunderstorms that accompany rapid moving frontal systems. The five day outlook will give advance indication of the amount and duration of rainy weather as it develops.

Growing crops will benefit from ample rainfall and near normal temperatures in June. The wheat harvest will have to be worked in between wet spells, and farmers will want to watch forecasts closely to avoid delays in late bean planting behind wheat.

Where thrips become an economic problem, spraying schedules will also depend upon intervals of wet weather. This is also true in peach orchards once the spray program is initiated. Save yourself the expense of wasted spray materials by following the daily and five day weather outlooks.

Fishing and swimming will increase with warmer weather. Water sports should be avoided during electrical storms, and the club house is the best place to be on the golf course when thunderstorms develop. If your local radio station subscribes to the ESSA Weather Wire Service, check weather and forecasts for your favorite recreation spot before planning a day's outing.

If your specific weather - related problem is not answered by weather broadcasts, feel free to contact the ESSA Weather Bureau Agricultural Service Office at Portageville by mail or by telephone: DR 9-3731.

Education Committee will hear opponents of the controversial "shared time" bill that would permit handicapped pupils from private and parochial schools to attend special courses in public schools.

Sen. A. Basey Vanlandingham, D-Columbia, the chairman, said he would try to get the committee to act one way or the other.

The Senate Committee on Agriculture also meets Tuesday night to consider a House-passed bill to extend the food stamp plan on a statewide basis. A similar bill squeezed through the Senate after being defeated twice.

After today, both House and Senate are expected to spend most of their time acting on bills originating in the other house.

Still pending are many of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' major recommendations, including expansion of medicaid and a key welfare bill to let unemployed fathers live at home without impairing aid to their dependent children. It is stuck in the Senate Committee on Economics.

It has passed the House but the Senate committee took no action on it last week.

built. This program is not matched by any other state in the U. S. he said.

On a less optimistic note, Dr. Crider said that 76 counties in the state do not have local associations for the retarded. He urged more participation in the programs for the retarded by persons other than the parents of afflicted children.

Earl Mackey, Rep., Cape Girardeau, stated that the need to help the retarded will increase in the future.

He provided a glimpse of what lies ahead by giving a brief rundown of some of the pertinent legislature affecting mental retardation. The following bills have passed the House:

1. House Bill 388, now in the state senate will extend the amount of money to be used for the mentally exceptional and the physically exceptional.

2. House Bill 606 will extend mandatory school attendance to "trainable" mentally retarded, not only the "educable."

3. House Bill 727, now on the Senate calander, will permit insurance companies to allow policies held by parents of mentally retarded children or handicapped children to continue past age 18 in health and accident policies for as long as the child is under the protection of the parent.

4. House Bill 24, will provide shared time for mentally retarded children attending private schools.

5. Kindergarten Bill will provide state aid for kindergarten. Chances for passage of the bill are good, he said, and it will profit the educable retarded.

6. An appropriations bill also is pending which would provide money to buy more land and expand buildings and facilities for the training centers now being constructed, he said.

Mackey also listed some future possibilities for improving the overall programs for the retarded:

Setting up a legislative commission to survey the existing programs and to show what is needed next.

Appropriate money for field supervisory personnel.

Pass legislation to have a program for pre-school mentally retarded children throughout the state. Some counties have such programs, but a state effort is needed, he said.

Increase appropriations for grants to assure adequate training centers.

Set up sheltered homes, or half-way houses, which serve as residential centers used by the retarded persons when they work away from home at sheltered workshops.

Half-way houses would not constitute a complete break with their own home. They would stay at the residential centers during the week, and could stay at home on the weekends.

tion. The Arab High Command in Cairo said Iraqi planes had joined Syria and Jordan in raids on Israeli targets.

Cairo radio said Israeli planes were bombing Cairo and "other places." The Israeli government denied any Egyptian cities had been bombed. Heavy antiaircraft fire was heard from the outskirts of Cairo but no planes were seen over the center of the Egyptian capital.

The Israeli army reported heavy fighting in the Negev Desert of southern Israel, opposite the Gaza Strip and Sinai Desert where Egypt had massed 80,000 troops. The Israeli government radio's military correspondent reported Israeli forces were advancing and Egyptian guns had been silenced in an artillery battle.

A Jordanian government spokesman reported "a fierce battle" in Jerusalem. He said Jordanian artillery set off "huge fires on the Israeli side."

The U.S. Embassy in Tel Aviv warned all American citizens to leave on the first available commercial plane and started to burn its classified documents.

"There is no assurance that the U.S. government would be able to provide transport if the situation should suddenly deteriorate further," an embassy spokesman said.

Although the State Department had advised all Americans whose presence was not necessary to leave Israel, Egypt, Syria and Jordan, an estimated 6,000 U.S. citizens are believed still in Israel.

Power Failure Hits East Coast

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A giant power failure hit sections of the East Coast from New Jersey to Delaware at midmorning today. Electricity was restored in sections of Philadelphia an hour later.

The blackout hit Newark and Philadelphia and other cities in a populous area that was not affected by the great Northeastern blackout of November, 1965.

New York City and other areas hit by the 1965 blackout were not affected this time.

The Public Service Co. of New Jersey said the failure occurred in an interconnecting line tying together the power systems of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

The company said the specific trouble had not been located, and it could not say when service would be restored.

The utility said eight of its nine generating stations were knocked out.

Lights were out, radio stations off the air, telephones were disrupted, and state and city governments operated on emergency power.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

BY Jack Strass L.L.D.

THE CASE OF THE NUTTY BENEFICIARY

Selma and her husband George were spending a quiet night at home. Selma was quietly reading a newspaper and husband George was quitely sneaking up to her with a butcher's knife. Suffering from a split personality, he cleaved his wife in two.

Upon discovering Selma' body, the police also discovered that George was off his rocker. As a result, he was sent away for care and treatment. But the saga of Selma and George didn't end there. Later, George demanded payment under Selma's life insurance policy as sole beneficiary.

"Since she's dead," George told the insurance company, "I'm entitled to collect."

"If you were crazy when you killed her," answered an insurance company agent, "you're crazier now if you think we're going to pay you any money under that policy. After all, a man can't kill his wife and then collect her insurance."

George, however, thought he could and took his claim to court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you require the insurance company to fork over the money to George?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that a beneficiary is not precluded from receiving the proceeds of an insurance policy if he was insane at the time he killed the person insured.

Son of Canolou Couple Featured In Ohio Paper

The Rev. Grady Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Evans of Canalou, was featured in a story in a Cincinnati paper.

The Rev. Mr. Evans was reared in Canalou and received his bachelor of science degree from Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau.

The story:

"Most men have a hobby, golf, fishing or hunting. This is mine."

That's the simple explanation given by Rev. Grady Evans for a flock of extracurricular chores such as talking to Bible classes, directing evangelistic meetings, visiting homes and hospitals, conducting summer church camps.

They are extra because he also has two full-time jobs. He's pastor of Riverside Baptist church and a counselor at Woodward high school.

Adding interest to his story is the fact that this 31-year-old man was paralyzed by polio in all limbs before he was two years old. Physicians at three hospitals advised his parents to "Make him comfortable . . . death was inevitable."

But one doctor at a Holland hospital, more optimistic, prescribed constant massage and as Rev. Mr. Evans described, "for many many hours my mother litterally gave her life massaging paralyzed limbs."

Beside the massage, every possible treatment and corrective surgery in many hospitals in three states were given and, progressively, crutches and braces were discarded as successful surgery was performed.

As further therapy, after he was 10 years old, his father encouraged him to do farm chores, chopping, picking cotton, driving tractors and self - propelled combines.

Today, a slight limp is the only reminder of a childhood of physical suffering.

On the spiritual side, he has acquired "a divine gift of endurance" and a philosophy that "handicaps are only obstacles in a game of life. To win is victory!"

His parents also expected him to attend church services three times a week. This, too, influenced him because in his words, "It was the beginning of an eternal blessing."

His goal when he entered college was to become a physician, a medical missionary and perhaps a psychiatrist. But he changed his mind. As he told it:

"When I met a marvelous nurse, plans were slightly altered. Instead of entering the medical field, I married one who already had. Instead of becoming a foreign missionary, I became to have one. Instead of being a psychiatrist, as a counselor it is my privilege to be able to refer to psychiatrists those who need such assistance."

McBee Named To Position In Job Corps

KANSAS CITY - Robert L. McBee has been named community affairs specialist for the Job Corps program in the 11-state North-Central region of the Office of Economic Opportunity, Don Thomason, regional director of OEO, announced.

McBee has been managing editor, The Pleasant Hill Times, editor, The Register, Denver; a reporter for the Kansas City Star; associate editor of Bailey Publications, Independence; a writer for Westminster College, Fulton; editor for an Air Force weekly at Salina, Kan., and has worked in the advertising field.

June Weather Should Be Near Normal

PORTAGEVILLE -- Temperatures over the Missouri Bootheel are expected to average near normal through June. Precipitation patterns anticipated over the middle of the nation suggest near normal rainfall for Missouri's southeast counties, but above normal over the balance of the states.

Centers of major high pressure systems will follow a path across the northern Plains through the Great Lakes region. This will permit occasional intrustions of cool air into the area. High pressure concentration over the southeast corner of the nation will account for warm, humid southerly winds flowing out of the Gulf region.

The path of most low pressure centers affecting the Bootheel will lie across northern Missouri. This pattern generally results in heavier than normal precipitation over most of the state, but more nearly normal rainfall totals in the Bootheel. It doesn't eliminate the possibility of locally heavy downpours during thunderstorms.

A week-long wet spell about the middle of May accounted for the heavy accumulations that brought monthly totals well above normal at ESSA Weather Bureau agricultural stations. The following amounts were recorded:

Sikeston 9.32 inches, Malden 7.59 inches, Caruthersville 8.98 inches, Portageville 10.00 inches, Poplar Bluff 6.76 inches, Kennett 11.92 inches, Charleston 9.01 inches.

ESSA Weather Bureau rain gages at the University of Missouri experiment field caught 11.06 inches, and 12.79 inches fell at Cairo, Ill. Normal precipitation for the Bootheel as a whole during June is 3.94 inches. Normals for individual cities are:

Caruthersville 3.36 inches, Fisk 4.32 inches, New Madrid 3.99 inches, Poplar Bluff, 4.16 inches, Dexter 4.35 inches, Morehouse 4.19 inches, Parma 4.06 inches, Sikeston 4.16 inches.

Short term averages for other cities are:

Malden 3.16 inches, Portageville 3.76 inches, Kennett 3.80 inches, Charleston 3.86 inches.

Usually we can look for about 10 days with precipitation in June. Patterns indicated for this month may favor intermittent wet periods of several days duration rather than the one day with showers and thunderstorms that accompany rapid moving frontal systems. The five day outlook will give advance indication of the amount and duration of rainy weather as it develops.

Growing crops will benefit from ample rainfall and near normal temperatures in June. The wheat harvest will have to be worked in between wet spells, and farmers will want to watch forecasts closely to avoid delays in late bean planting behind wheat.

Where thrips become an economic problem, spraying schedules will also depend upon intervals of wet weather. This is also true in peach orchards once the spray program is initiated. Save yourself the expense of wasted spray materials by following the daily and five day weather outlooks.

Fishing and swimming will increase with warmer weather. Water sports should be avoided during electrical storms, and the club house is the best place to be on the golf course when thunderstorms develop. If your local radio station subscribes to the ESSA Weather Wire Service, check weather and forecasts for your favorite recreation spot before planning a day's outing.

If your specific weather - related problem is not answered by weather broadcasts, feel free to contact the ESSA Weather Bureau Agricultural Service Office at Portageville by mail or by telephone: DR 9-3731.

Education Committee will hear opponents of the controversial "shared time" bill that would permit handicapped pupils from private and parochial schools to attend special courses in public schools.

Sen. A. Basey Vanlandingham, D-Columbia, the chairman, said he would try to get the committee to act one way or the other.

The Senate Committee on Agriculture also meets Tuesday night to consider a House-passed bill to extend the food stamp plan on a statewide basis. A similar bill squeezed through the Senate after being defeated twice.

After today, both House and Senate are expected to spend most of their time acting on bills originating in the other house.

Still pending are many of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' major recommendations, including expansion of medicaid and a key welfare bill to let unemployed fathers live at home without impairing aid to their dependent children. It is stuck in the Senate Committee on Economics.

It has passed the House but the Senate committee took no action on it last week.

built. This program is not matched by any other state in the U. S. he said.

On a less optimistic note, Dr. Crider said that 76 counties in the state do not have local associations for the retarded. He urged more participation in the programs for the retarded by persons other than the parents of afflicted children.

Earl Mackey, Rep., Cape Girardeau, stated that the need to help the retarded will increase in the future.

He provided a glimpse of what lies ahead by giving a brief rundown of some of the pertinent legislature affecting mental retardation. The following bills have passed the House:

1. House Bill 388, now in the state senate will extend the amount of money to be used for the mentally exceptional and the physically exceptional.

2. House Bill 606 will extend mandatory school attendance to "trainable" mentally retarded, not only the "educable."

3. House Bill 727, now on the Senate calander, will permit insurance companies to allow policies held by parents of mentally retarded children or handicapped children to continue past age 18 in health and accident policies for as long as the child is under the protection of the parent.

4. House Bill 24, will provide shared time for mentally retarded children attending private schools.

5. Kindergarten Bill will provide state aid for kindergarten. Chances for passage of the bill are good, he said, and it will profit the educable retarded.

6. An appropriations bill also is pending which would provide money to buy more land and expand buildings and facilities for the training centers now being constructed, he said.

Mackey also listed some future possibilities for improving the overall programs for the retarded:

Setting up a legislative commission to survey the existing programs and to show what is needed next.

Appropriate money for field supervisory personnel.

Pass legislation to have a program for pre-school mentally retarded children throughout the state. Some counties have such programs, but a state effort is needed, he said.

Increase appropriations for grants to assure adequate training centers.

Set up sheltered homes, or half-way houses, which serve as residential centers used by the retarded persons when they work away from home at sheltered workshops.

Half-way houses would not constitute a complete break with their own home. They would stay at the residential centers during the week, and could stay at home on the weekends.

tion. The Arab High Command in Cairo said Iraqi planes had joined Syria and Jordan in raids on Israeli targets.

Cairo radio said Israeli planes were bombing Cairo and "other places." The Israeli government denied any Egyptian cities had been bombed. Heavy antiaircraft fire was heard from the outskirts of Cairo but no planes were seen over the center of the Egyptian capital.

The Israeli army reported heavy fighting in the Negev Desert of southern Israel, opposite the Gaza Strip and Sinai Desert where Egypt had massed 80,000 troops. The Israeli government radio's military correspondent reported Israeli forces were advancing and Egyptian guns had been silenced in an artillery battle.

A Jordanian government spokesman reported "a fierce battle" in Jerusalem. He said Jordanian artillery set off "huge fires on the Israeli side."

The U.S. Embassy in Tel Aviv warned all American citizens to leave on the first available commercial plane and started to burn its classified documents.

"There is no assurance that the U.S. government would be able to provide transport if the situation should suddenly deteriorate further," an embassy spokesman said.

Although the State Department had advised all Americans whose presence was not necessary to leave Israel, Egypt, Syria and Jordan, an estimated 6,000 U.S. citizens are believed still in Israel.

Power Failure Hits East Coast

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A giant power failure hit sections of the East Coast from New Jersey to Delaware at midmorning today. Electricity was restored in sections of Philadelphia an hour later.

The blackout hit Newark and Philadelphia and other cities in a populous area that was not affected by the great Northeastern blackout of November, 1965.

New York City and other areas hit by the 1965 blackout were not affected this time.

The Public Service Co. of New Jersey said the failure occurred in an interconnecting line tying together the power systems of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

The company said the specific trouble had not been located, and it could not say when service would be restored.

The utility said eight of its nine generating stations were knocked out.

Lights were out, radio stations off the air, telephones were disrupted, and state and city governments operated on emergency power.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

BY Jack Strass L.L.D.

THE CASE OF THE NUTTY BENEFICIARY

Selma and her husband George were spending a quiet night at home. Selma was quietly reading a newspaper and husband George was quitely sneaking up to her with a butcher's knife. Suffering from a split personality, he cleaved his wife in two.

Upon discovering Selma's body, the police also discovered that George was off his rocker. As a result, he was sent away for care and treatment. But the saga of Selma and George didn't end there. Later, George demanded payment under Selma's life insurance policy as sole beneficiary.

"Since she's dead," George told the insurance company, "I'm entitled to collect."

"If you were crazy when you killed her," answered an insurance company agent, "you're crazier now if you think we're going to pay you any money under that policy. After all, a man can't kill his wife and then collect her insurance."

George, however, thought he could and took his claim to court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you require the insurance company to fork over the money to George?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that a beneficiary is not precluded from receiving the proceeds of an insurance policy if he was insane at the time he killed the person insured.

From The Upper Room

MONDAY, JUNE 5, 1967

They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength. (Isaiah 40:31)

PRAYER: Grant me, O Lord, to spread true love in the world. Make me a true member of Thy living church. Help me to worship Thee in spirit and in love and to reflect Thy glory through my words and deeds. For Christ's sake I pray. Amen.

Looking Back Over The Years

50 Years Ago
June 5, 1917

Much complaint has been made about the sling shots being used by the boys to kill the blackbirds. The boys are careless, it seems, about using them, and should endeavor to shoot only into the trees and not toward houses, as window panes are easily broken by the rocks.

The lightning struck the northeast corner of the McGee home on North Ranney avenue, causing a small fire to blaze. Miss Louise McGee discovered the fire and extinguished it before the arrival of the fire truck.

Wade and Pleas Malcolm bought the Kirby restaurant on Front street last week and will continue to operate it as a quick lunch stand.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Mulkey and children went to Charleston Saturday to attend the 57th wedding anniversary of Mrs. Mulkey's parents.

Among students at home for vacation are: Lynn Smith and John Sikes from Missouri U.; Bill Bowman from Alabama U.; Jimmy Howell, Jack Bowman and Buddy Matthews, Westminster; Misses Louise and Lucille Stubblefield, Christian College; Ray Marshall, Fayette; and Miss Honora Bailey, Philadelphia.

Morley -- Mr. and Mrs. Rueben Aikens, Chris Wallbright and Mrs. Jack Taylor of Metropolis, Ill., spent Sunday at the Dave Cummins home.

Ted Cole, farmer near Salcedo, had the tibia of his right leg broken squarely in two Saturday afternoon when the horse he was riding stepped into a hole and fell against a stump pinning Mr. Cole between the stump and the horse.

Thanks to Dr. L. B. Adams, veterinarian, for naming an Irish setter dog after us, and the reason was that the dog was everlastingly scrapping at other dogs but had sense enough not to come to a close fight.

Mrs. Lennie Marshall sustained an operation Tuesday morning in Southeast Missouri Hospital. Her condition Thursday was thought to be satisfactory.

A severe electrical storm, which struck Sikeston yesterday flooded Sikeston streeted and caused scattered lightning damage in Sikeston and vicinity. A large barn on the Moore Greer farm, near Brown Spur, was struck by lightning and was totally destroyed in the resulting fire. A mule belonging to William Cole died in the fire and a large amount of hay stored in the barn by Forrest Lackey, Fremont Goetz and Mr. Cole was also destroyed.

Charles D. Cameron, the father of 21 living children, was honored Saturday afternoon at community exercises at Portageville after having been designated as "Father of the Year" by the National Fathers' Association.

Preliminary work has been started at Oran toward construction of a large pumping station, replacing the present station, on the Big and Little Inch lines, which will be used to transmit natural gas from Texas to industrial centers.

Other mental health centers built under the same Missouri legislation are at Joplin, Springfield, Hannibal, Poplar Bluff, Sikeston, Rolla and Kirksville.

Shriver also will visit OEO program facilities in Missouri during his one-day visit.

In our parish, the young people were really pushing the annual charity football game. "Sorry, I won't be able to go," replied our neighbor when our son called on him. "But my spirit will be there."

"Fine," replied my son. "We have $2, $3, $5.50 tickets. Where would you like your spirit to sit?"

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: I suppose I should be happy my husband is not a slob, but I'm beginning to think the other extreme is just as bad. Here is a sample of what goes on in our house before we leave for an evening, and it is driving me crazy.

He says, "Do I look O.K.?" I say, "Yes. You look fine, dear." He says, "Is this tie right with this shirt?" I say, "Honey your tie is perfect." He says, "Are you sure my pants aren't too long?" I say, "No dear, your pants are just right." He says, "Did I get a good haircut this time or did the barber take too much off over the ears?" I say, "Your haircut is beautiful, dear."

Just as we get out the door he'll say, "Is this jacket right with these trousers or should I go back and put on my herringbone?" I say, "Your jacket is perfect, dear." When we get in the car he says, "Do you think I should have put on my brown shoes?" I say, "These shoes are fine, dear."

Then when I ask, "How do you think I look tonight?" he answers, "Why must you always fish for compliments? I'm getting awfully tired building you up."

What can I do with a guy like this? — M.J.

Dear M.J.: Nothing, so don't try. A man who is so unsure of himself is not going to give his wife much bolstering. So just continue to prop him up and feed his vanity because he sure does need it, Lady.

Dear Ann Landers: If you do not accomplish another thing in your life, the way you have put the spotlight on mental illness deserves a medal.

I was deeply moved by the letter from the young woman whose mother-in-law accused her of using her "nerves" as an excuse to avoid responsibility. I'm an older woman who must work to support myself. I am the victim of "nerves" or mental illness — or I am just plain nuts, whatever anybody wants to call it.

My children think I am faking and feeling sorry for myself. They are tired of me, but they are not half as tired as I am — of myself. At times I wish I could just die and get out of their way, but I keep hoping tomorrow will be better.

Mental illness is impossible to describe to a person who has good mental health. It's like trying to describe hell. It's unreal. It's a million miles from nowhere. It has no beginning and no end.

Please tell your readers who can live reasonably normal lives, free of horrible depressions and agonizing fears, that they should thank God for every day. They are truly blessed. — STILL FIGHTING

Dear Fighting: I have had dozens of letters today from people who share your problem. Your letter said it best, however. Chin up, and thank you for writing.

Confidential to Meant Well: If a vicious remark like that is your idea of "meaning well," what's your idea of a stab in the back? You sound like a woman who has an instinct for the jugular. You owe her an apology and if she accepts it consider yourself lucky.

How will you know when the real thing comes along? Ask Ann Landers. Send for her booklet, "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.
